It's Big, and Little Religions to Suit Many-Car Families His Work, His Monument

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24—To know that the world is small, come to the edge of the Pacific and talk to New York friends as easily as though they were in the same room. Or call London and talk, unconscious of the fact that your voice, transformed into an electric impulse, flashes across the Atlantic ocean in less than a sixtieth of a second through the ether.

Next, to realize that the world, this country especially, is big, explore the map on your railroad timetable and look for Tucson, Ariz. You find it a couple of inches away from Los Angeles, and decide to drive there some afternoon to investigate the much-praised climate, which Colonel Boyce says is the best on this or any other planet.

You discover the distance is 700 miles, and decide to take one of Paul Shoup's Southern Pacific trains, that makes the trip in a night.

This West Coast supplies everything that you want in the way of new ideas, religions, queer beliefs.

Many gentlemen teach you to explore hidden resources of your brain, and exchange them for cash, right away.

One, enthusiastic, teaches something new, called "brain breathing." By brain breathing, it seems, you can get rich rapidly.

A mature lady, leader of a religious sect, is annoyed by a charge of murder.

The gentleman in the case was put out of the way with poison. He had taken up another religion. But, without fail, "he will be resurrected after publication of 'the great sixth seal.'"

That "seal," you must know, contains the secrets of the universe. For it, reviving Mr. Ruzzio would be child's play.

One unfortunate father, convinced his religious teachers could bring his daughter back to life, kept the child's body on ice for more than a year.

The religious lady accused of murder, according to witnesses, said she received orders from the Angel Gabriel, but was told not to shed blood. Hence the poison.

Strange to us now, such nonsense was part of religious belief, through all time, until recently.

Thousands were put to death, tortured, burned, for not choosing the "only true religion."

Protestants burned Catholics, Catholics burned Protestants, Protestants and Catholics burned Jews, first torturing them to get their money.

Mohammedans killed everybody, except Mohammedans.

The order to slay and spare not, coming from Heaven, was nothing exceptional.

This glorious coast from Seattle to San Diego, the land of good roads, faces a family problem less acute in other parts of the country.

The problem is "which cars shall go into the garage, which shall be parked in the driveway?" Here, the two-car, three-car and four-car family is the rule.

A family with only one car is primitive.

In 1933, Chicago will celebrate in grand style the "century of progress."

And there is much to celebrate.

Rufus C. Dawes, brother of our ambassador to England, president of the Chicago celebration, says: "Man is becoming smarter all the time, and because of science the world is a much better place than ever before."

Most gratifying is the fact that man is becoming less brutal all the time. Now, if you want to find murder in the name of religion, the vilest beliefs or superstitions, you go into the gutters of ignorance. You no longer find such things on the throne or in lawmaking bodies.

S. T. Mather, dead in Boston, deserves a monument as high as the tallest of the magnificent trees protected and preserved by him as director of the National park service.

Once a worker on the old New York Morning Sun, in Dana's time, later a prosperous business man, Mr. Mather devoted his life and fortune to the extension and development of our national parks.

Born in California, a product of American public schools, and the University of California, Mather would want no monument from men. He knew, as every modern man worth while knows, that the only monument worth while is work well done.

Thanks to Mather's work, this nation, for all earthly time, will possess the most magnificent parks on the surface of the globe.

U. S. INSISTS ON CRUISER PARITY

Stimson to Force Issue That Wrecked Geneva Parley; Move on for Harmony

London, Jan. 24 — Delegates to the five-power naval conference virtually wound up their first week's work today with a whirl of activity, bringing Anglo - American parity sharply to the fore and pointing to publicity for all future full meetings of the conference.

At the suggestion of Henry L. Stimson, American Secretary of State, the troublesome cruiser problem, which wrecked the Geneva conference, seems certain to be the first taken up in arranging details of parity of the British and American navies.

The move for the admission of correspondents at future conference meetings such as that of yesterday at St. James Palace also originated in the American delegation. Senator Robinson strongly urged such a step and Senator Reed supported him.

NO CRUISER PARITY NOW

In urging that the cruiser angle of the Anglo-American parity problem be taken up first, Secretary Stimson struck directly at the most troublesome question in the whole parity discussion.

Although agreed on other points, the exact balance of the American and British cruiser fleets is one point never settled. As the matter stands, disparity amounts roughly to whether the United States is to build in the years to come her last three projected 10,000-ton cruisers under her 15-cruiser program.

Secretary Stimson hopes to go into this more fully over the week-end with his own delegation.

The day's round of conference also kept the Italian demand for parity with the French and Anglo-French disagreements over the scope of the conference constantly under the microscope.

The French went to No. 10 Downing st. this morning, where, with the British delegates, they examined at length a memorandum prepared by Rene Massigli of the French delegation, and Robert Leslie Craigie of the British Foreign Office, dealing with points of difference.

STIMSON IS PLEASED

Dino Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister, also saw Mr. MacDonald and then hurried away for an appointment with Secretary Stimson. The quick succession of conferences kept the general picture of the negotiations changing rapidly.

Col. Stimson in his first conference with the entire press representation at St. James Palace described progress of the conference

Martin on Hub Park Board

John J. Martin, president of the Exchange Trust Co. and living at 123 Commonwealth ave., was today appointed a park commissioner by Mayor Curley.

The banker, a close friend of the mayor, accepted the appointment.

In announcing the Martin appointment, Mayor Curley smilingly remarked that he had played golf often with the banker.

"He is a good golfer," the mayor said, "and perhaps he will be able to get us another municipal golf course."

Dry Officer Kills Schoolboy in Auto Party

The life of another boy is cut short by a prohibition officer's bullet. Another entry for the roll of innocents sacrificed in the name of prohibition enforcement.

HOW a school boy returning home one night with a group of fellow-students from a school party was shot to death by a prohibition-enforcing deputy sheriff is described in reports received by the Washington Herald from B. J. Oakes, coroner of Floyd County, and Dan Shannon, chief of police of Charles City, Iowa.

The boy, Melvin Stoker of Charles City, was killed May 20, 1923, by Vern Cutler, a deputy and son of Sheriff Cutler of Floyd County. The shooting took place on a highway south of Charles City. No inquest was held, but Cutler was indicted by the Grand Jury, convicted and given an eight-year sentence and later paroled. Coroner Oakes, on July 5, 1929, described the killing in a report to the Herald as follows:

"A party of students returning home at night and ordered to stop. Deputy shot through the back of car hitting Melvin Stoker, who died in hospital next day."

Wilson Sets Date at City Hospital; Shattuck to Lead Fight in House

The fight for a legislative investigation of the pensioning of former Patrolman Oliver B. Garrett, thought sidetracked by an order for Garrett's re-examination, will come before the Legislature again next Wednesday.

Commissioner Wilson today notified Garrett to appear at City Hospital on January 31 to submit to a physical examination by the physicians of the retirement board. The notice was mailed to Garrett from police headquarters at noon.

The rejected orders of Senator Joseph J. Mulhern of Dorchester, will come up for debate in the House Wednesday, and one of the liveliest sessions yet held is expected.

SHATTUCK TO FIGHT

It is understood a battle to overturn the adverse report of the joint committee on rules, on Senator Mulhern's orders for the Garrett investigation, will be led by Rep. Henry L. Shattuck of Boston, one of the foremost Republican House leaders.

Two other Republicans, Reps. Arnold Leonard of Watertown and Richard D. Crockwell of Medford, dissenters from the adverse report, will take a prominent part in the debate.

Martin Hays of Brighton, who lives in Commissioner Wilson's district, is expected to throw his weight in the committee report, which defeated the orders for an investigation of Garrett and the police department.

A substitute order may be introduced by which the House alone would conduct an investigation and place the Senate in an embarrassing position.

MAY FACE TRIAL.

Meantime Garrett is facing the new physical examination January 31, and if his condition is found to be satisfactory it may result in his being recalled to duty and then placed before a trial board on charges of insubordination.

NORWEGIANS TO AID BYRD IN ICE FIELDS

Whaling Ship Will Go to Rescue if Needed, Washington Is Told

Washington, Jan. 24 (AP)—Ambassador Dawes informed the State Department today that the British steamer, Southern Princess, standing by to aid the Byrd party in the Antarctic, would not be able to pierce the thick ice surrounding the Byrd expedition and effect the rescue of the party.

Oslo, Norway, Jan. 24 (AP) —Replying to a request through the United States minister for Norwegian whalers to assist the Byrd expedition in the Antarctic, the Norwegian government today informed the American government it would do its best.

The Norwegian reply said the government had approached the whalers association, which had expressed the opinion that the ice barrier cutting off Byrd's camp from open water and his supply ships would break up, as it has done in previous years.

The association, however, stated that if Rear-Admiral Byrd were short of provisions, a whaling factory ship will be sent in an effort to give assistance.

British Whaler Standing by to Aid Byrd Party

London, Jan. 24 (AP)—The British whaler Southern Princess is standing by in Antarctic waters waiting for an opportunity to get in touch with the expedition of Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, held in by pack ice in the Antarctic.

The Liverpool owners of the whaler received a request from Ambassador Dawes for assistance, and sent instructions to the master to take whatever action he could.

Byrd's Position Serious, Washington Insists

Washington, Jan. 24 (INS)—Contrary to published statements of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's New York representative, the State Department reiterated today the situation confronting the ice-bound South Polar exploring party is serious.

The department announced yesterday that Byrd had advised he has insufficient food to remain on the ice barrier another winter and that several of companions would not be able to survive the experience. This information was cabled the Norwegian Government in a request that Norwegian whaling boats, now in Antarctic waters be sent toward Byrd's ships to penetrate the ice packs and start for home.

The huge packs will form next month, making passage by any ship impossible for another year, the department said.

Capt. H. H. Bailey, the New York representative of the expedition, declared Byrd was fully equipped to spend another winter at the South Pole.

Kidnaper Hunt Ended

Susan Albright, Smith College heiress to millions, whose kidnaping, police found, was without criminality.

Smith Kidnap Case Is Dropped as Harmless

Northampton, Jan. 24—State police today dropped their investigation of the claimed kidnaping of Susan Albright, Smith College senior.

The sudden action followed a telephone conversation between Detective Albert M. Dasey and Capt. Thomas E. Bligh, directing the inquiry from Boston.

The decision not to pursue further the story of the Buffalo, N. Y., heiress, who said she was abducted and held prisoner by two men and a woman, was reached following Lieut. Dasey's second visit to a nearby town in an effort to interview two former employes of the college.

Police are convinced that no criminal intent lay behind whatever transpired during Miss Albright's absence from the college for two hours Tuesday evening.

A possibility that her alleged captors were involved in a recent suspected attempt to abduct Robert McConnell, 5, from the Smith Day School for Boys existed as a police theory for a short time.

CORCORAN OUT OF PRISON

William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex County, stepped from the State prison colony at Norfolk today a free man.

Sent to prison in May of 1926 for seven to 10 years in connection with the Boston blackmail ring cases, Corcoran was freed on parole, having served two-thirds of his minimum sentence.

He was met at the prison camp by Atty. William J. Kelly of Boston, who accompanied him to this

Luckenbach's Wife Wins Fight for Son

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Lillian L. Luckenbach, wife of Lewis Luckenbach, vice-president of the Luckenbach Steamship Co., was awarded by default today sole custody of her son, Lewis Luckenbach, Jr., 8.

Mrs. Luckenbach is suing for divorce, naming as her rival Miss Della Louise Stone. In an affidavit filed recently in an attempt to gain custody of the child, she stated that her husband, Miss Stone, and the boy were then on his island estate, Islamirado, Fla.

Favor 50 Millions More for U. S. Roads

Washington, Jan. 24 (AP)—The House bill proposing an increase in the annual federal appropriation for road building from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 for the next three years, was reported favorably to the Senate today by its post roads committee.

3 Accused in $32,500 Check Theft Here

The fact that a check for $24,000 and another for $8500 were stolen from the brokerage house of Proctor Cook & Co., 30 Congress st., was revealed today with the arrest of three men.

They were taken into custody by Special Officers Dwyer and MacDonald of division 2, who obtained warrants charging conspiracy and attempt to steal.

The larceny was not discovered until yesterday, according to police, when Richard L. George, 25, of Decatur st., South End, presented the $24,000 check at the office of Stone & Webster Co. in payment for the purchase of securities.

Becoming suspicious, Stone & Webster telephoned Proctor, Cook & Co., who in turn notified the police, and George was arrested.

TAKEN IN SEPTEMBER

Police say the checks were taken in September and that the $8500 one was turned over to Barney Silverman, 29, of Hansen st., South End. They charge that he handed it to Barney Landberg, 38, of Wayland st., Roxbury, and that eventually it was deposited in a Roxbury bank, where withdrawals were made on it until it was exhausted.

The police assert Landberg admitted his share in the transaction and that they recovered $1400 from him. This amount, they say, he claimed to have held for himself, giving $7000 to Silverman.

Police say that George's attempt to obtain part of the $7000 got him two black eyes. It is expected that more of the stolen money will be recovered today.

HELD BY COURT

In municipal court Judge John Duff held George in $5000 for the alleged larceny of the $24,000 check. Silverman and Landberg were held in $10,000 each for conspiracy to steal and larceny of the $8500 check.

Judge Duff told Atty. John Crehan his client George could be released for $2000 cash bail instead of $5000, and attempts were being made to raise it.

HIDES, SHOES ON FREE LIST

Washington, Jan. 24—All hides, varieties of leather goods, boots and shoes were restored to the free list in the new tariff bill today by the Senate as the climax to a week's debate over tariff protection for cattle raisers and the tanning industry.

The Senate first refused to increase the House duties on hides by several record votes and then finally wiped out all protection for the articles, the House had placed a duty of 10 per cent on hides duties ranging from 12½ to 20 per cent on leather goods and duties ranging from 20 to 35 per cent on boots and shoes. All o rthese were wiped out at one swoop.

The motion putting all the items on the free list was made by Senator Borah (R.), Idaho.

It was adopted by a vote of 45 to 28.

Four Firemen Hurt When Church Burns

Philadelphia, Jan. 24 (AP)—Four firemen were injured and damage estimated at $200,000 was done today when fire swept through the Gaston Presbyterian church. Except for patches of roof, only the walls of the edifice were standing when firemen gained control of the blaze after a four-hour battle.

SLEUTH ALSO CALLED TO FURNISH EVIDENCE

Both Before Testifying Express the Desire to See Thorough Hub Probe

Walter W. Liggett, author of "Bawdy Boston," went before a federal grand jury here today to tell of alleged vice conditions in Boston, while in an anteroom waiting to be called sat Robert J. Allen, former Washington policeman, now an investigator here for an undisclosed organization or individual.

Before either of thes men went into the grand jury room, both issued statements challenging federal officials to "go through with a real investigation" of conditions.

Liggett, prior to his appearance before the jurors, repeated a former assertion that Governor Allen was responsible for alleged conditions because of his failure to shake up the police department, and both Liggett and Allen assailed the State Senate today for failing to vote a probe of the Garrett pension.

Liggett to newspapermen reiterated his charge that "Boston is in the grip of a grafting gang of politicians, while rapacious policemen, bootleggers, extortioners, whiteslavers, dope peddlers, gamblers, gunmen and miscellaneous racketeers have put every form of vice on a paying basis."

Allen cited a list of well-known men and said he would ask the Grand Jury to call them for questioning in connection with the inquiry. He sai dif he were in a position to do so, h would "throw Police Commissioner Wilson out of office."

Both Liggett and Allen, in their statements, before being called before the Grand Jury, said if Federal officials wanted a real investigation they would have to summon many others in order to get at the facts, and Liggett challenged U. S. Atty. Frederick H. Tarr to do so, "if he means business."

"There is entirely too much politics mixed up here with law and order," said Allen. "Judges should be put under civil service. They should be appointed because of their knowledge of law and a reputation for fairness.

REFUSES TO EXPLAIN

"I am not representing anybody but Robert J. Allen in my investigation."

Later, however, he contradicted himself, saying that efforts had been made to discredit "those whom I represent." He refused to explain the contradiction.

"It is a mystery to me how Mr. Tarr knew I had information that was of interest to the federal Government. I have never mentioned anything about a rum ring, but he seems to think I have some information thereon.

"I am going to testify fully if called upon. I am not quite ready, however, and should have preferred to have more time, but all I have learned I will place before the grand jury.

"Incidentally, I want to say that I have met many honest police officers in Boston. The police force is a credit to most of those who [illegible] me as being honest [illegible] on the streets.

"I agree with ex-Mayor Fitzgerald in his statement that he would throw Police Commissioner Wilson out if he were in office. I'd throw him out if I were in a position to do so."

"It is not conducive to the public good to keep him in office.

"Now I am a poor man but I would give a lot to learn how U. S. Atty. Tarr learned that I knew of the State House rum ring. How as "very satisfactory and encouraging."

At about the same time an official communique was issued which said:

The French and British delegations met this morning at 10 Downing st. to consider a report which the committee of experts had been asked to prepare. This report shows encouraging results on certain points and it was decided to invite the experts to continue their conversations."

The Franco-British report considered today concerned a possible compromise system of measuring navies which would satisfy French demands.

MAY LINK IT TO LEAGUE

The experts' report also dealt with the possibility of a general non-aggression pact dealing with the Mediterranean.

The French likewise have indicated a desire to exclude from the negotiations entirely small types of ships including the small-est submarines. It is understood the Japanese are favorable to this step.

The feeling developed in some influential quarters that the discussions are paving the way for French participation in a five-power treaty, perhaps with a reservation stating she regards the arrangement as for a period only, hoping later to couple it with a wider disarmament plan, covering land armaments and linking with the League of Nations' disarmament efforts.

The suggestion was advanced that limitations might be so arranged as to permit France to transfer to the cruiser category some of the battleship tonnage allowed her under the Washington treaty but which she never used. This was offered as a possible means of permitting her to go on with cruiser building, which she regards essential.

The American delegation has decided, it was learned today, to press for consideration of the cruiser question, or auxiliary war vessels, before other categories are taken up.

Col. Stimson was understood to have put forward cruisers as comprising one of the most important problems facing the conference, the one which should be met and disposed of first.

The British and Americans, as a result of negotiations last summer and fall, already have reached a tentative agreement on this category and the Americans feel that the entire problem should be settled as quickly as possible.

BRITISH-FRENCH CLASH

This question of categories was discussed in private meetings of the principal American delegates at their hotel this morning. Col. Stimson asked his colleagues to submit ideas as to the best procedure for handling the problem.

This was a day of private conferences to iron out some problems preparatory to the next formal session of the conference at St. James Palace Monday.

The first major effort to reconcile the radically divergent French and British views on the method of limitation—whether by tonnage or by categories—was made today in private discussions.

The complete French and British delegations met at 10 Downing st. to consider the reports of their experts who had been working together.

This afternoon, Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy was received by Col. Stimson. As there is no question at issue between the United States and Italy, it is presumed Col. Stimson is seeing the Italian leader in an endeavor to be helpful in smoothing out the Franco-Italian differences.

The French and American technical experts plan to meet as soon as possible and take up some of their problems. The meeting of the American delegation was held early this forenoon at their hotel.

The Americans, British, Japanese, French and Italians all are expected to find themselves deeply engrossed in a continuing cycle of informal discussions for a long period before any final result becomes apparent.

The general tone today of all public utterances is one of optimism, and even privately the delegates express satisfaction at their progress thus far, although of course it was far too early to make any positive forecast.

Andre Tardieu, premier of France, who, many persons believed, might come to London with little hope of a five-power agreement, was among those voicing complete confidence in the outcome.

Secretary Stimson told the American newspapermen today he had indicated to others his willingness to forego three seats now supplied by advisers at plenary sessions of the conference to make room for the representatives of three American press associations.

He said he knew there was considerable criticism at the exclusion of the press from the meetings of the delegates, but that he knew of no reason for it except in the size of the room.

He said he felt sure the other delegations held views similar to his and that the press should be admitted to the plenary sessions although they thus far had not expressed themselves formally thereon.

Col. Stimson today accepted his first unofficial social engagement since he came to England.

A dinner will be given in his honor by the Second Battalion of Scots Guards commanded by Lieut. Col. E. C. T. Warner at St. James's Palace on Feb. 6.

did he find it out? I wrote no letters about this matter.

"I have signed statements here from State House employes about the rum ring. I went to extraordinary lengths to keep this information secret."

LIGGETT'S CHALLENGE

Liggett, in his prepared statement, said:

"Because I wrote an article entitled Bawdy Boston in a recent issue of Plain Talk I was summoned to appear before the federal grand jury. Now, on the eve of my appearance, in the papers I read statements from U. S. Atty. Tarr that there will be no whitewashing.

"He also threatened, if I interpret his remarks correctly, that I must either put up or be shut up—in jail—on contempt charges.

"I am delighted with this reported attitude on the part of Mr. Tarr. A real investigation is exactly what I want, and if Mr. Tarr adheres to his purpose to go to the very bottom of crime conditions now existing in Boston, he will find me more than willing to render him every assistance.

REPEATS HIS CHARGES.

"In my article Bawdy Boston I stated that after 10 years of prohibition the people of Boston find their government in the grip of a grafting gang of politicians, white rapacious policemen, bootleggers, racketeers, white slavers, dope peddlars, gamblers, gunmen and miscellaneous racketeers have put every form of vice on a paying basis.

"I now repeat those charges, and if Mr. Tarr is going to make a real investigation, one that would follow every trail to the very end, without fear or favor, the conditions revealed will not only shake Boston to its very foundations, but will also profoundly shock the entire nation.

"I wish to warn Mr. Tarr, however, that in undertaking any such investigation he will be called upon to combat secret political pressure from those in high positions.

BLAMES GOVERNOR

"My article in Plain Talk flatly declared that Gov. Allen could not escape responsibility for conditions and was justly blameable if bootleggers, white slavers, dope peddlers and other underworld characters were allowed free reign in Boston under police protection.

"Events of the last few days have fully substantiated my statements. The whole force of the Allen administration has rallied to defeat measures introduced by Senators Joseph J. Mulhern and Henry Parkman, Jr., which would have resulted at least in a partial investigation of the police force by throwing some light on the reasons why Oliver B. Garrett was retired on a pension.

TRYING TO SIDESTEP

"Governor Allen reported these charges to Police Commissioner Wilson for investigation and Commissioner Wilson in the very man under fire. Once more Governor Allen's friends have sought to oppose a real expose and are seeking to sidestep by having Garrett re-examined by a medical board.

"I do not believe the people of Boston will be deceived by these subterfuges.

"I am not paid by the government to act as a snooper and the role of informer is absolutely abhorrent to my nature. The only persons I am interested in exposing are men who profit enormously by organized vice and hypocrites in high places who vote dry and protect criminals in their stronghold."

the liquor squad, Garrett was ordered transferred to division 3 as a patrolman, with order to appear before a trial board.

The police trial was to have been on charges that Garrett threatened to "blow the lid off" the police department when transferred, and that he failed to report an illness.

Before he could go on trial Police Commissioner Wilson suddenly reversed his attitude and permitted Garrett to retire on a pension on the ground that he had been previously injured in the line of duty.

Asked today if he would comment on the Mulhearn orders, Commissioner Wilson said:

"I've said all I'm going to say at the committee hearing at the State House."

The medical board which will examine Garrett is made up of Drs. John A. Foley, medical practitioner; Robert C. Cochrane, surgeon, and Arthur W. Fairbanks, neurologist. The board was established under the acts of 1922 creating the board of retirement.

Mulhern's bills were killed in the Senate, as was a substitute order by Senator Parkman for an investigation by the attorney-general.

Party lines were broken wide open in the debate when it came to a vote. Seven Republicans lined up with eight Democrats in a futile effort to ward off defeat by trying to jam through a substitute resolve proposed on the Mulhern orders.

The issue was brought to the floor when Senator Mulhern asked that the adverse reports from the committee on rules be over-ridden. In speaking on his request, he reviewed the entire situation.

WOMAN BROKE PROBATION TO BE 'SAMARITAN'

Enters Girl in College; Got a Check for Tuition by Deceit, Police Say

Springfield, Jan. 24—An alleged "schemer and dreamer," Mrs. Aura E. Roberts, 38, mother of four children, who says her fault is in trying to help others, was arrested today for violating the terms of a suspended sentence.

Placed on probation in 1927 on condition that she eschew all financial ventures, Mrs. Roberts fell afoul of the law again when she entered a girl at Wheaton College, Norton, and failed to pay her tuition.

In court her case was continued to Jan. 31, and she was held in $500 which she was unable to raise.

Three years ago Mrs. Roberts was convicted of passing worthless checks.

Her probation also forbade her even to enter a bank unless accompanied by her husband.

Several months ago Mrs. Roberts read a book published by a girl student at Central high school and became interested. She arranged a meeting and agreed to finance the girl in a college course.

The girl entered Wheaton last September, but no money was forthcoming from Mrs. Roberts. Yesterday she telephoned to Mrs. Andrew R. Wallace, wife of the president of Forbes & Wallace. Posing as a representative of the college, she prevailed on Mrs. Wallace to send a check for $200.

In court today, Mrs. Roberts said she was a schemer and dreamer, unable to content herself with household tasks, but constantly engaged in schemes to help others.

MAY SUE WBZ IN DRY TILT

Springfield, Jan. 24 (AP)—Appeal of Conrad W. Crooker of the Liberal Civic League from the refusal of radio station WBZ to permit him to advertise an anti-prohibition rally here tonight, brought from Judge Ira Robinson, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, today a telegram advising Crooker that his remedy lies in the courts.

The twomen had been in telephonic communication earlier in the day, as the result of which Crooker had reported that Judge Robinson was in sympathy with Crooker's contention that the station had no basic right to refuse time for a public purpose at existing commercial rates.

Crooker, who also is representing the Constitutional Liberty League, has arranged a rally in which candidates of the second district Congressional vacancy have been invited to speak. Judge Robinson told Crooker that his appeal would come before the full commission late today.

Curley Turns Down Tunnel Suggestion

Mayor Curley failed to enthuse today over a suggestion that the present East Boston tunnel might be converted into traffic tunnel and the electrics run over a drawbridge thrown across the harbor.

This project, he said, would mean the junking of $11,500,000 worth of labor and equipment and even then would be but a makeshift.

BAY STATE DRY SOLON BALKS AT HOOVER PLAN

Rep. Stobbs Points to Danger of Depriving Accused of Jury Trial

Washington, Jan. 24 (INS)—The wisdom of President Hoover's program for tightening prohibition enforcement was seriously questioned by drys today for the first time on the floor of the house and public hearings before two committees.

The anti-Prohibitionists have had the program under fire for a week, but the drys at last entered the controversy to demand further information before giving it their approval.

The high light was an appeal to the House itself by Rep. Stobbs (R.) of Worcester, Mass., a dry, for advice on what to do with the President's proposal for conferring police magistrate powers on U. S. commissioners.

He pointed out the danger of depriving accused men of their right to trial by jury and admitted the House Judiciary committee was puzzled by several constitutional features of the proposal.

city, where Corcoran said he intends to make a new start in the insurance business.

Corcoran, whose appearance testified to his good health and spirits, declared he was physically and mentally better than he had been for years, and 50 pounds lighter.

"I feel fine," he said, "better than I have for years, and ready to tackle my new life with enthusiasm. I've taken off a lot of weight and am in the best of condition. I intend to enter the insurance business in Boston and will make my home in Stoneham."

LAST MEAL IN PRISON

The former district attorney's parents live in Stoneham and it was understood he will make his home with them for a time. His wife and children were living at Long Island, N. Y.

Although anxious to get away from the prison camp, Corcoran was induced by Kelly to eat his last breakfast there, and hurriedly partook of oatmeal, coffee and bread.

With Supt. Dill and Asst. Supt. Leach as their guests the new building, in the construction of which he has participated for the past seven months.

Corcoran said "So long" to the job and bade farewell to the two officials and then motored in company with Kelly to motor to Boston.

Last December the former prosecutor was interviewed by the full board of parole and notified that he would be allowed to return to civil life.

Chairman Frank A. Brooks said that Corcoran's good record in prison and the evidence that he promises to lead an upright and orderly life from now on prompted the board's action.

He was convicted specifically of using his office of district attorney to thwart the efforts of Kenneth Merrill of Newton of an offense, with intent to extort money. Corcoran was sentenced in conjunction with Mrs. Theresa Duggan, who received five years and a day, and J. Warren Kane, given three and a half to five years, both as accessories.

Mrs. Duggan was paroled from the Sherborn woman's prison in February of 1928 and Kane completed his sentence at the Rutland prison camp.

IS GRANTED PAROLE

Corcoran automatically appeared before the parole board when he had served four years and eight months, or two-thirds of his minimum sentence. The board believes he has reformed and will not repeat his offense, or lead a life of crime, or become a public charge.

"The board felt Corcoran to be a good risk in this regard," Chairman Brooks said, "and granted his release on parole.

"This means that once a week for the first month and once a month thereafter until May 24, 1935, he must communicate with the board by letter. After May 24, 1935, his sentence is completed.

EAST BOSTON BRIDGE PLAN NOT DEAD, EVERETT STONE INSISTS

CLAIMS ARMY HAS NOT YET DECIDED

Utilities Commissioner Cites the Low Spans Permitted New Orleans and New York

Everett E. Stone of the Public Utilities Commission, who will attend the conference called by Mayor Curley on Jan. 28 to discuss the East Boston bridge or tunnel tangle, declared today the bridge idea is far from being dead.

The War Department, he contended, does not definitely determine the clearance of a bridge over navigable waters until it has all the facts.

He takes issues with the impression caused by Washington dispatches that a 200-foot clearance for Boston harbor would be necessary. Bridge after bridge has been constructed or is in process of being built, he said, with a clearance of less than 200 feet.

CITES NEW ORLEANS CASE

He said he hoped to have information ready for the conference which will aid the Mayor materially in reaching a decision as to whether a tunnel or a bridge should be constructed.

He pointed out that plans have recently been approved by the War Department for the New Orleans public belt railroad bridge with a clearance of 135 feet at a river stage of 20 feet. This bridge, he continued, will be a publicly owned one over the Mississippi river and the very considerable traffic of sea-going vessels bound for Baton Rouge will pass under the bridge.

OTHER "LOW" BRIDGES

"The Goethals bridge and the Outer bridge, just completed, have vertical clearances of 135 feet above mean high water," he said.

"These bridges span the Arthur Kill between Staten Island and New Jersey. The bridge Kill van Kull between Bayonne and Port Richmond, new building, will have a vertical clearance of 135 feet at the bulkhead and 150 feet at the center.

"The Hudson River bridge between Fort Lee, N. J., and West 178th st. has a center clearance of 213 feet but this was determined by the height of the palisades rather than navigation requirements.

"The Brooklyn navy yard is located between Manhattan and Williamsburg bridges, which have a clearance of 135 feet at mean high water."

$65,000 FIRE IN WINCHENDON

Winchendon, Jan. 24—Fire raced through a one-story block of five stores in the heart of the business district here today, causing a loss estimated at $65,000.

It started in the hardware store of M. D. Shedd and a paint explosion ripped out the front of the building.

Hot air blasts and explosion of cartridges nullified firemen as they battled the flames.

The fire is believed to have been smoldering several hours before it spread to the paint, stored in the basement. Leonard Newton was driving along Central st. when the first blast occurred and sounded an alarm.

A few minutes before that Chief of Police Robert Callahan had passed the block on his way home from the police station, but had seen nothing wrong. He was preparing to retire at home when the fire alarm called him back to duty.

The other shops destroyed were McLellan's 5 and 10 cent store, Kaplan's clothing store, M. B. Robbins' jewelry shop and an Atlantic & Pacific store.

Within a few feet of the block is the home of Joseph Lawson, but firemen saved it. Lawson and his family took refuge in the home of a neighbor until the fire was under control.

Salem Child Burns to Death in Her Home

Salem, Jan. 24 (AP)—Two-year-old Edith Nydnoski was burned to death in the kitchen of her home here today during the brief absence of her mother to a neighboring store. Persons in adjacent houses saw smoke and summoned aid.

An infant was asleep in a room near the kitchen but was unharmed.

Wales Stars in Private Air Film

Sunningdale, Eng., Jan. 24—Everybody in Hollywood has made at least one air epic, so the Prince of Wales had to film one too. Although he's rather late with his, it's a safe bet he would have no difficulty selling it in the American film capital, for he is the star and the supervisor of this aerial opus. But the film is for his private collection. A flying officer was his cameraman during production.

Art Teachers Turned Out in Hub School

With an enrollment nearly up to capacity, the Massachusetts School of Art on Exeter st. is now entering its 60th year, with a total of 400 boys and girls taking a four-year course for art degrees.

The school year is divided into three terms of 12 weeks each, and the school this week is beginning its second period. There are also 350 night school students, making the total day and evening enrollment one of the largest in years.

This school is distinguished as being the only one in the country, and probably in the world, for training art teachers. This has been broadened to art work in all fields. Sculptors, artists and others planning a commercial art career are trained.

Charles E. Newell, principal, is director of art education for the Commonwealth. He has a day staff of 30 and an evening faculty of 18 teachers.

In the third-year course students are encouraged to select their special field in which they wish to become experts. Many choose costume illustration, while many take up sculpture. Living models are frequently used.

In the costume class the girls can cleverly copy any new Paris costume hit.

"I hope for the sake of Sinn Feiners, Orangemen and every other class. I hope it will come before long with the consent of all. We cannot bring it about with anything like force or pressure. The best and surest way is for the Free State to build itself up in prosperity and strength and to continue to show absolute justice and fair play to men of every class and creed."

RECORD SET BY MRS. RICKER

Poland Spring, Me., Jan. 24—Mrs. E. P. Ricker, Jr., of Poland Spring today broke the record for the 25-mile course in the first heat of the two-day dog race here. Her time was 2 hours, 1 minute, 40 seconds.

Close on her heels was Leonhard Seppala, famous dog racer, whose time was 2 hours, 2 minutes, 10 seconds.

Walter Channing of Boston, driving his first team, came in third, having completed the course in 2 hours, 11 minutes, 10 seconds

Ike Legasse of Littleton, N. H., was fourth, with an elapsed time of 2 hours and 22 minutes flat.

The other entries were John Johnson, driving Channing's second team; E. Coffin of Mechanics Falls, Me.; R. E. Read, Leland Lombard and Roger Haines.

Today's race was the first successful contest over the courses in the last three years, weather conditions having been unfavorable in preceding seasons. Conditions today were ideal. The snow was in perfect shape over the entire route, and the temperature ranged in the neighborhood of 10 degrees above zero.

SINCLAIR'S BIG GIFTS TURN OUT TO BE 'DUDS'

Jail Dentist, Facing Hearing, Got a Wrist Watch and a Second-Hand "Flivver"

Washington, Jan. 24 (INS)—In contrast to the "automobile a block long" which figured in the mistrial of the Harry F. Sinclair conspiracy trial, which one of the jurors was said to have bragged Sinclair would give him, a second-hand "flivver" figured today in charges preferred against Albert E. Kling, student dentist at the district jail.

Kling, senior in the dental class of Georgetown University, it is charged, received gifts from Sinclair and H. Mason Day, who served terms in the jail as a result of the same jury tampering that involved the "block long" automobile.

Sinclair is supposed to have given Kling a wrist watch valued at $150, and a garage owner from whom the young dentist bought a second-hand low priced car charged it was paid for with the remark, "I can pay cash for it because of a present from Mr. Day."

It is understood that about the only services he performed for Sinclair were to clean his teeth, and Day was said to have been taken by Kling to Gallinger Hospital, on the jail reservation, for a wounded knee.

A hearing on the charges against Kling will be held at the District Jail at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow before a special board composed of Maj. William L. Peak, superintendent of the jail, and Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of penal institutions.

Twohig Says His 'Jerk Town' Rap Was Joke

Cambridge, Malden and Lynn were today taken out of the "jerk town" class by Rep. James J. Twohig of South Boston.

In renewing his fight for an investigation of the question of forming a greater Boston, Twohig declared:

"I'll admit I have to be careful what I say, for at the last hearing I made a 15-minute serious speech, and in reply to a facetious remark by Senator Kidder, jokingly referred to jerk towns.

"It was plainly a joke yet it was heralded from one end of the State to the other."

Twohig said he would hardly slur Malden, the city of his birth, or Lynn, where he has a brother and sister.

He stressed that his bill does not call for the creation of a Greater Boston, but for a study of the project, which crops up year after year.

"There is no question involved of dragging unwilling towns into the city of Boston," he said.

"It is said I am opposing the Curley plan. My bill was in the hands of the House counsel two weeks before the mayor's inaugural. It has nothing to do with the Curley plan. The creation last year of a Metropolitan Transit district showed me that we are coming to think in terms of the Metropolitan area. And the State should co-operate in this move."

HATRY IS JAILED FOR 14 YEARS

London, Jan. 24 (AP)—Clarence Hatry, chief figure in the manipulating of a chain of financial enterprises controlling millions of pounds sterling, will have to serve 14 years' penal servitude for engaging in a series of what the court today called "appalling frauds" by which investors lost about £600,000 (or about $4,000,000).

The collapse of the Hatry enterprises threw London's financial system into a state of disorder from which it is still suffering.

The sentence was imposed in Old Bailey court after Hatry and three co-defendants pleaded guilty to crimes committed in the process of their financial manipulations.

Edmund Daniels was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude, John Graham Dixon to five years, and Albert E. Tabor to three years. Each also received sentences of varying terms of imprisonment on subsidiary counts in the indictments but as all run concurrently the terms mentioned are the maximum.

Justice Avery, presiding, was unsparing in his condemnation of the four financiers.

"You stand convicted of the most appalling frauds that have ever disfigured the commercial reputation of this country," he declared. "These frauds are far more serious than any of the great frauds upon the public which have been committed within the last 50 years—frauds which were carried out by means of wholesale forgery."

Edmund Daniels, co-defendant, was sentenced to seven and five years, also two years and five years, all to run concurrently.

1 Dead, Many Hurt in Refinery Blast

Kenova, W. Va., Jan. 24 (AP)—Bud Robinson, a workman, was killed instantly, Floyd McCracken was probably fatally injured and an undetermined number of others were hurt less seriously in two explosions that rocked the Tri-State Refining Company's plant here today.

Kenova and Hennington fire departments extinguished the flames that followed, but danger of other explosions made impossible an accurate check of damage at the plant.

AVIATORS WILL DROP FOOD FROM SKY

Hundreds Marooned Amid the Frozen Streams Await Aid by Indiana Fliers

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 24 (INS)—With death, disease and slow starvation threatening, the hundreds of families marooned in the flooded lowlands of southwestern Indiana today pinned their hopes on an airplane squadron to bring relief.

Efforts to reach the refugees by boat have failed because of ice floes, and as a last resort two army airplanes and a squadron of National Guard planes today prepared to drop food, clothing and medical supplies at regular intervals throughout the flooded zone.

Once the supplies are dropped, small boats will attempt to distribute them to villages and individual families who have taken refuge in flooded houses and barns.

Discouraging reports were brought here following a survey of the flood zone by two army aviators. Few signs of life were seen throughout the miles of water and ice-covered river valleys, and it is feared that many have been drowned by the swift current.

Eighty-five residents of the village of Decker Chapel, who took refuge in the second floor rooms of homes there, have not been heard from. Many are reported to be ill from disease and exposure.

Eight hundred residents of Griffin, Ind., are without food and fuel and the town is completely cut off by the flood water, the army fliers reported.

Serious ice jams in the Wabash river near Riverton have dammed up six feet of water and ice. Should the wall break or be dynamited, it is feared that the water would break the levee that is protecting Vincennes and Riverton.

Airmen Drop Supplies to Arkansas Families

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 24 (AP)—From a plane—the only possible method of contact—food and fuel have been dropped for the first time to some of the more than 200 families held prisoner by flood and ice in the inundated Big Lake area of the northeastern Arkansas.

And through crude signals arranged by notes attached to blocks of wood and hurled down at cabin doors the fliers learned that the families already are existing on the barest of rations and face near starvation unless help reaches them soon.

In the ship there were sacks of charcoal and small sacks of flour, bought at Blytheville several days, men learned they couldn't reach the Red Cross food supply.

A house where no smoke was seen coming from chimneys was aroused by diving low and raising as much racket as possible with the motor. Persons emerged at windows and doors and the fliers dived low in front of them. Down went the first note which read: "If you need food wave something white. If you need fuel wave something dark."

Before the fliers had time to circle the flood victims were waving both white and dark cloths.

One rescue crew found 30 persons in a single room cabin. A half dozen children were among them. They were eating the last of their food supply—a small strip of raw meat.

Rich Union Head Held at Racketeer

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—The identities of who men indicted last night by the grand jury which investigated alleged racketeering in the building trades in the Bronx, were revealed today when Antonio Monteforte, wealthy head of the Plasterers' Information Bureau, was held in $50,000 bail.

Michael McCluskey, delegate of Local 6 of the Plasterers' Union, is also charged with extortion. He has not been arrested.

The investigation was begun after a series of fires, alleged to have been startde by racketeers, destroyed uncompleted apartment buildings to the extent of $2,500,000.

Boasts How He Sent Mother to Jail

Herewith is the statement of the man who signed himself as "Henry Miller" on the affidavit which sent Mrs. Ina Brown to prison. His own words written today shed some interesting highlights on the character of the man.

By WESLEY OWEN PATTON

(Copyright, 1930, by the Examiner Printing Co. and Universal Service.)

Salinas, Cal., Jan. 24—I have always wanted to be an undercover agent or investigator, because I can worm my way into most any place. I have a nose for liquor, too.

My wife says that if I was out in the middle of a desert I could shake a bottle out of a bush. She is a dry if there ever was one, but I don't mind a little snifter myself, if it's good stuff.

Business is one thing, and sentiment is another.

At 20 per cent of the fine, the way we work, you can pick up say $60 for turning in one fellow—just a few hours' time.

With that idea in mind, I went to the office of Sheriff Abbott of Monterey County and suggested that I do undercover work for him. That was about four months ago.

DRANK BROWN'S BEER

Freda Holt's place in Castroville was the first place I turned in and the reason I did that was because when I bought a round of drinks for myself and three other fellows, and handed her $5, she didn't give me any change back. It made me sore, so I turned her in. I got $50 commission on that job—which was a whole lot better than if I'd have got the change.

Art Brown was an easy fellow to get acquainted with, and in no time at all he figured I was his bosom friend. I would drop out to his house and sit around drinking beer, and neither he nor his wife ever had any suspicion.

They never figured that I was going to swear out a warrant that they had beer in the home. As a matter of fact, I never did swear to the affidavit.

Laughery made it out on his typewriter in his home. He had the blank forms right there—both the affidavit and the search warrant. That was on the night of December 30. I told him I had to go out to Castroville and pick up a wreck, and wouldn't be able to appear before the judge. He said that was all right as the judge was going to be out of town the next day anyway.

PLEASED HIS CHIEF

I came back the next day and found that Justice of the Peace Ray Baugh's signature was already on the affidavit, just as though I had stood up before him and sworn under oath that I made the buy.

Laughery laughed and seemed mighty pleased when I turned Mr. Brown in.

"Great work, Pat," he said to me.

Now he's trying to go back on me. The night the Examiner representatives were questioning me and I denied I was Miller, I made the excuse that I was going out to consult an attorney and went up to Laughery's house instead. Laughery said I had got him and the rest of them into enough trouble and he didn't want anything more to do with me. Now he's even trying to say I'm not Miller, so I'll be cut out of my share of the fine if it's legally paid.

I think it's all a lot of fuss and feathers over that premature baby being born in jail. The baby wasn't expected until May, and anyway, lots of women don't mind a little accident like that. All I did was my duty and I have no apologies to make. When I turned in Mrs. Brown I was working for my country just like a man in the army or navy.

It's not my fault if the Salinas jail is dirty—or if the matron wasn't there that night, or if the ambulance was late.

(Editor's note—The above statement by Patton was sworn to by him before a notary in Salinas. A few hours later he apparently became frightened under the questioning of Argyll Campbell, assistant district attorney, reversed his previous story declaring the manner in which the Brown affidavit was signed, declared that Justice of the Peace Baugh had been present and that the Brown affidavit had actually been sworn to before Baugh. However, he asserted that another affidavit, in the case of the Green Top, a road house, had been signed without the justice of the peace being present.)

TRIED ALL KINDS OF LAXATIVES

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Gave Only Permanent Relief

As everybody knows, the market is flooded with cathartics, pills and patent compounds for the relief of constipation. At best, whatever results are obtained are temporary. Besides, there is the danger in certain drugs and the habit-forming menace.

Mr. P. M. Fisher, 517 Olive Street, Scranton, Pa., has something to say on this subject which will be interesting to all constipation sufferers. He says:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse.

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthful condition."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded.

In addition, it adds needed iron to the diet. You will like its delicious flavor. There are many delightful ways to eat it. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NEUMANN WINS WEEK'S DELAY

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 24 (AP)—Counsel for Moe Neuman, alleged gangster wanted in Boston for the killing of Samuel Reinstein, reputed head of a white slave ring, today had gained a temporary victory in the legal battle to prevent extradition of Neuman to Massachusetts.

Efforts of Massachusetts authorities to obtain immediate extradition of Neuman, now held at Philadelphia, were blocked at a hearing before Deputy Attorney General Scott. Neuman's counsel was given an opportunity to file briefs in the case. As a result, no decision on the requisition will be made until next week.

Harry P. Feiger, counsel for Neuman, tried to prove a case of "mistaken identity."

MAWSON FINDS ANTARCTIC SEA FOWL

By Sir Douglas Mawson
Commander of the British, Australian and New Zealand Antarctic Research Expedition.

(Copyright, 1936, in the United States and the North American Continent by New York American, Inc. World Copyright Reserved by Sir Douglas Mawson.)

By Radio via London

S. S. Discovery, Antarctica, Jan. 13 (Delayed)—At 5:30 o'clock this morning we arrived off a high rocky peak of the Enderby Land coast, finding it separated by a narrow water passage from the mainland ice cliffs.

There are many rocky outcroppings in this vicinity, some appearing as small islets, others as rocky projections from the coastal ice. The islets and grounded icebergs cause a local jam of ice packs through which the ship pressed to a large pool of open water in the lee of the coast.

Our position is now latitude 66.5, longitude 53.5, placing us approximately on the Antarctic Circle.

Our scientists disembarked from the Discovery, spending a profitable day ashore. The luxuriant sea weed in the shallow water harbors a great variety of marine life. Seals are plentiful and adelie penguins by the thousands sport in the waters, their busy rookeries lining the shore and extending up the slopes to a height of 500 feet.

This is an area of ancient crystalline rocks. Climbing the slopes of the main rock outcrop, one came upon nests of many kinds of sea fowl, thus locating their second known nesting place in the Antarctic regions.

Petrels and their chicks were observed for the first time from this vantage point. Here above the ship we had a good view of the sea and the northern extremity of Enderby Land.

We sighted 174 icebergs, mostly of the tabular form and over 100 feet high. The land ice slopes rise easily and smoothly except at points where they are above submerged peaks. Here they are much crevassed.

Elsewhere the rocky foundations rise through the ice-cap as lofty peaks. One, named Mt. Codrington by Biscoe in 1831, was recognized among the lesser peaks to the S. S. W. Our surveys over some hundreds of miles, including Mac-Robertson sound and Kemp Land, now joined with Biscoe Land, are charted.

Overlooking this lonely land, we raised the British flag on a high scrip and deposited a scroll recording the fact. Late in the afternoon we descended to the shore, loaded with rocks and bird eggs. There we were joined by the magnitician of our party who had determined the magnetic constants. Then we embarked.

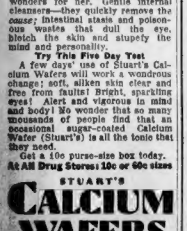
Girl Is Attacked by Spurned Youth

Because she refused to marry him after he had kept company with her for two years; William Silva, 20, a leather worker of Shamrock st., Peabody, administered a beating to his sweetheart, an 18-year-old girl, with the result that he was arrested.

Miss Eleanor Lehte, of New Castle rd., in the Gardiner Park section of Peabody was the girl involved in the case. According to the young lady's story to the Peabody police, her parents informed her that she must give up her friendship for Silva. When she told Silva he was angry.

Dies in Ambulance

Edward Fitzpatrick, 70, a lodger in a Green st. (West End) house, was taken ill suddenly and died while being hurried to the Haymarket Sq. Relief Hospital.



Sudden change to COMPLEXION BEAUTY Amazed her Friends

BUT she never told them why. For years her skin was dull and sallow. Pimples, blotches and blemishes marred her chance of beauty. But not any more.

They calcium wafers worked their wonders for her. Gentle internal cleansers—they quickly remove the cause: intestinal stasis and poisonous wastes that dull the eye, blotch the skin and stupefy the mind and personality.

Try This Five Day Test

A few days' use of Stuart's Calcium Wafers will work a wondrous change; soft, silken skin clear and free from faults! Bright, sparkling eyes! Alert and vigorous in mind and body! No wonder that so many thousands of people find that an occasional sugar-coated Calcium Wafer (Stuart's) is all the tonic that they need.

History Proves Poor Boy Not Handicapped

Editor Boston American:

A group of students gathered in the Back Bay the other evening. It was an informal meeting. There was general speaking and outbursts of indignation about how the world was run.

"You can't get along in this world unless you have dough. You've got to have plenty of money and then women and men will pay attention to you," said a young wiseacre, just blooming into 20 years.

A professor sat over in one corner until after these fireworks were over.

He said: "I don't think that the poor boy is handicapped as many of you have thought. Let me explain. Tycho Brahe made all his discoveries among the stars without a telescope. Columbus found America after he had to beg hard for money and ships to make the voyage. Another well-known seaman, Turner painted his masterpiece for the National Gallery out of broken teacups. Edison was a poor boy. The hunchback, Steinmetz, had no wealth and did not care for it. Three of the Canadian provincial premiers were once hired men on the farm. Boys, cheer up! Make your opportunity."

"Dawn Man" Theory Consoles This Miss

Editor Boston American:

I was so glad to read in your paper, quoting Prof. Henry F. Osborn of New York, that we are not descended from apes. We have come from the "Dawn Men," he says. That sounds much better, for my ancestors were such honorable persons that I never could entertain the idea that they had an ape origin. It is a great revelation to me that we are springing from the Dawn Man, who lived 50,000,000 years back.

I always thought Darwin and Wallace were a little cracked about this ape business, but I did not dare to say much in the presence of a Harvard professor, who was really gone on the ape business and kept serving it up every time he called. No matter what he talked about this would eventually creep out that we were all apes in the past. I thank Professor Osborne so much for this "Dawn Man" business. I take great stock in it.

Thinks Horse Will Stage Comeback

Editor Boston American:

I was interested by the remark of a speaker in Boston, who said that transportation would be materially changed in the next 10 years and that horses would be seen in menageries only within 60 years.

I do not believe this speculation about horses. I have just received information on this point which is interesting. The number of horses in Canada in June, 1929, is placed at 3,376,467. This is a slight increase over last year. I also noticed that the U. S. Department of Agriculture says the horse is coming back.

Scores Firing of Scrubwomen at Harvard

Editor Boston American:

For some years I have taken a deep interest in scrubwomen in a building on Tremont st. For this reason I deplore the action of Harvard University discharging the scrubwomen from their duties in Widener library.

If Harvard wants to cut expenses, let it be done where it can be borne. To dismiss these women, many of them widows, is a great hardship. I know what I am discussing. I have gone into the homes of these women. I know one scrubwoman, a widow, who spends week after week on her knees, scrubbing to keep her boy at school and to provide food for them both in her very humble home in South Boston.

They deserve $12 a week and they deserve more, if you will only inquire into the conditions of their living. There is so much useless expenditure of money in laboratories of Harvard University, finding out how insects bite and what they will bite, paying large salaries for this information. It is about time that we considered a class of human beings who scrub floors for a living.

NATURALIZING FRAUDS PROBE TO REOPEN

Officials of the Department of Labor in Washington will reopen their investigation of the Boston bureau of naturalization, it was learned today.

Thomas B. Shumaker, deputy commissioner, will come to Boston and resume the inquiry he started in May last.

Charges in a suit for $20,000 filed in Suffolk Superior court against Henry Nicolla, director of naturalization for New England, and Maxwell Lamb, chief naturalization examiner, have spurred federal officials to action it was said today.

Charges in the suit are wholesale exploitation of illiterate aliens and unlawful detention and third-degree methods to make thevictims conform to the demands of the alleged extortion ring.

Similar charges last May resulted in a two-weeks' investigation of the Boston bureau by Shumaker, Asst. Deputy Henry B. Hazard and a dozen secret service agents.

Immigration officials admitted knowledge of an alien extortion ring operating in New England with branch headquarters in Brantford, Ont.

The names of "runners" were obtained by the federal investigators, but their under-cover methods prevented them being brought in for questioning.

It was charged these runners worked in co-operation with dishonest employes in the government service. Illiterate aliens seeking citizenship papers were forced to pay money to the "runners" and then be subjected to extortion of varying sums weekly or monthly on the threat of exposure and deportation.

Plastic Surgeon Is Denounced as Faker

Chicago, Jan. 24 (AP)—Dr. Henry J. Schireson, who styled himself "the greatest plastic surgeon in the world," was threatened with revocation of his license today.

He was found guilty by the Illinois state medical committee on charges of fraud, gross malpractice and practice unbecoming a physician.

The charges against Schireson were brought by Miss Sadye Holland, who said the plastic surgeon performed an operation to straighten her bow legs. The operation, she charged, later necessitated the amputation of both legs.

The report of the committee, headed by Dr. M. L. Harris, president of the American Medical Association, said the physician showed "a woeful lack of ordinary medical knowledge" and recommended to the state department of registration and education that Schireson's license be revoked.

Two Clubbed to Death

Powersville, Ga., Jan. 24—Green Hartley, 86, and his wife, 80, were found clubbed to death in their secluded farm home near here today.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been overstimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

EX-KAISER, 71, NEXT MONDAY

Doorn, Holland, Jan. 24 (AP)—The 71st birthday anniversary of William II., former German Emperor, on January 27, promises to be a quiet one compared with that of a year ago, when there gathered at Doorn the largest aggregation of Hohenzollerns seen together in one place since the fall of the German monarchy.

None of the more distant relatives are expected this year. As usual, former Crown Prince Frederick William has arranged to come. He probably will be accompanied by the former Crown Princess Cecile, as the former Kaiser's second wife, Hermine, and Cecile have patched up their differences.

William II is hale and hearty—he still indulges in his daily walk, saws wood when the weather permits and spends much time in researches on the so-called "war guilt question." Concerning this he maintains a large correspondence with historians all over the world.

Record January Sales Made at Gilchrist's

When 1240 members of the "happy Gilchrest family" met last night at the Chamber of Commerce for their eighth annual "Ye Olde Towne Meeting," two important announcements were made.

The appointment of a new store manager was announced, in the person of Fred Vorenberg, treasurer, who will take on additional managerial duties.

The second—and more vitally important to the Gilchrist family—was the statement of President Felix Vorenberg about the company business.

This announcement centered around the Diamond Jubilee now in progress, the observance of 75 years of successful service to the New England buying public.

"We've not only had the greatest January in our entire history," commented the president, "but we've also taken the lead of all Boston stores since our sale started."

Vorenberg said that this could be substantiated by federal figures.

"Yes," he added, "we not only surpassed last year, but we also went way beyond a figure we had set for the jubilee sales force to aim at in January. We thought that figure was a dream, but high as it was, we went beyond it."

"Coming so it does at a time when most big department stores are retrenching," said the president, "we are most happy over our record, for it proves that the public believes we are trying to give them their money's worth."

"And we've just scratched the surface," he added.

The party started with a roast turkey dinner with the store as host. The men and girls had to be served in three relays.

A snappy vaudeville program held the interest for nearly two hours, ending up with numbers by the Knickerbocker Club. This musical foursome won the Keith-Albee national male quartet championship for being the best in America.

The story of how this champion ship was won, was told by one of the singers. The song which won the title, and which swept the crowd last night, was "The Little Gutter Song," composed by a wandering darkey in Boston.

Next to the quartet, the hit of the evening was little eight-year-old Peggy Sullivan, in her personality-plus number.

Carl Moore and Billy Payne, radio entertainers, did a "Jimmy Walker" but made up for being late by several excellent numbers.

Several other song and dance numbers won applause, especially the work of youngsters. General dancing followed until 1 o'clock.

LOSES POLICY OF ROTHSTEIN

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—An insurance policy for $20,000 on the life of Arnold Rothstein was listed as an asset of the dead gambler's estate today under a court decision that it had not been legally transferred to Ines Norton, a show girl and friend of Rothstein.

Miss Norton, who was made defendant in a suit brought before Justice Alfred H. Townley in Supreme Court, testified that she was expecting to marry Rothstein at the time he was killed in November, 1928.

Tom Farley, negro, confidential employe of Rothstein, testified for the State that his employer was really in love with his estranged wife and had sent Farley as an emissary in an attempt to effect a reconciliation.

MARIE BROWN WEDS GEORGE CROCKER, JR.

AT HIGH NOON TODAY IN the sacristy of St. Cecelia's Church, Miss Marie Davenport Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davenport Brown (Marie McKenna) of Beacon st., was married to George Glover Crocker, Jr., of Milton, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Glover Crocker. Only members of the families attended the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Fr. Fletcher. The bride wore the same wedding gown that her mother wore in Washington on April 25, 1906. It is of white satin and she wore with it a tulle veil combined with duchess lace. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and gardenias. Miss Pauline De Friez, debutante daughter of Mrs. Eliot Wadsworth, as maid of honor and only attendant, was frocked in turquoise blue lace, and a straw hat of the same shade trimmed with velvet. She carried a corsage of salmon colored sweet peas. Perry Stokes Gaither of New Haven was Mr. Crocker's best man. Mrs. Brown wore a costume of blue and gold lame while the bridegroom's mother chose for this occasion a dress of tan shadow lace and a brown hat. Following the ceremony there was a reception of about 200 at the residence of the bride's family.

MISS BROWN MADE HER formal bow to society at a dance at the Copley-Plaza last winter, given by Mr. and Mrs. Brown for her and for her cousin, Miss Mary Vance. Mr. Crocker, Jr., graduated from Milton Academy and was a member of the class of 1929 at Harvard. The young couple are sailing tomorrow from New York on a Mediterranean cruise. They are to make their home in Cohasset next summer. The engagement was announced at a small tea on October 19.

A number of Mrs. Ladd's friends had the pleasure of meeting this talented actress, who is now playing the leading role in "Pygmalion" at the Hollis St. Theater. She, likewise, played the title role in "Major Barbara," another one of Bernard Shaw's remarkably strong plays.

DANCERS GET WELCOME HERE

By MOSES SMITH

Harald Kreutzberg and Yvonne Georgi, whose names have flamed across Europe and now America as brilliant exponents of the new German school of the dance, played a return engagement last night in Symphony Hall, for an enthralled audience.

Both of these dancers are extraordinary artists," with Kreutzberg excelling his partner, who is a fine dancer in her own right. Kreutzberg is fascinating not only to the student of the dance, who watches him as a master of technic, one who has subordinated his body to his will. He is even more, fascinating to the general public, because of the wings of his imagination, because of the thoroughgoing humanism of his art.

If his art has a symbolism it is symbolical in the manner of the twentieth century. His art, we believe, would be applauded in a variety show almost as much as it was last night at Symphony Hall.

In a program containing many remarkable dances with such titles as "Angel of Annunciation," "Dance with Sticks," "Jester's Dance" and "Sad Dreams," Kreutzberg and his partner—in solo or together—showed us a dance stripped of old conventions. Perhaps it is burdened with new; but if it is, the conventions are at least those we can understand, because they are of our time.

Some of the dances are gruesome, grotesque, fantastic; others are satirical, mocking a bygone age. The final number, "Potpourri," was a delightful burlesque in which the accompanist, Friedrich Wilckens, joined the dancers.

The audience was one of the most enthusiastic we have ever seen in Symphony Hall, often resorting to cheers and stamping of feet to show its pleasure.

Sheer Fabrics Hold Spotlight in New Mode

WHETHER georgette and crepe Elisabeth would withstand the onslaught of such sheer fabrics as flannel and chiffon is a question settled by the appearance of new afternoon frocks of semi-sheer quality. The moderate length and the trend toward more conservative styles that are replacing skirts dripping with pointed draperies, are a strong influence in bringing georgette and similar fabrics once more into popularity.

Sheer fabrics, and concentrated trimmings are highlights in the mode, and the frock pictured here is smart, youthful, and can be worn for many occasions demanding formal afternoon, or informal evening attire. It is of georgette, developed in high or pastel colors; the circular side inserts give a delightful swirl with every movement of the wearer, the neckline is slightly lower in back than in front, and finished with a bow, and long tie ends. The belt ties at the natural waistline. The sleeves are the frock's highlight, with their puffs above the waist, and delicate tracery of brilliant embroidery.

MODEL FROM GILCHRIST

ANOTHER feature commending this versatile frock is its moderate price.

The long ear-rings of brilliants, and rhinestone studded heels worn by the model carry out the attractive touch of glitter.

A new wrinkle for afternoon frock, which is in line with the puffed sleeve theme, are sleeves of net which reach from above the elbow almost to the wrists. These are joined to caps of the flat crepe at the shoulder and cuffs of the same material at the wrist. These sleeves are reminiful of the bishop sleeve which enjoyed such a tremendous vogue a few years back.

New Gowns in Favor of Concentrated Trimmings well as with more formal evening gowns.

The command, "heel and toe," becomes more than a bit of dance instruction this season. It is the demand of the moment in the matter of trimming for the shoe. The heel and vamp get first attention these days of lengthened skirts. Appliques are used on the heels of evening slippers to match similar fabrics decorating the vamps. Jeweled heels are also very smart for evening wear. Higher heels are the order of the evening for they appear to much better advantage than low heels with the graceful new frocks.

IN a season when black is so popular, it becomes a vital question whether we should wear an accenting color or not. And now comes an answer to the problem. Emerald green proves to be the cleverest accent for the formal black frock.

Little velvet hats of brilliant green appear smartly with black for dinner or afternoon. The green must be carefully chosen, of course, and the lines of the hat studied carefully. But the effect is decidedly new and different, and worth all the effort or correct selection.

IN choosing a new coat for immediate and early spring wear it is well to keep in mind the three types that will make their bow with the spring. The caps coat returns to the mode with a flourish and takes almost every known form from the belted to the straightline coat with long cape or small shoulder capelet.

The princess or semiprincess coat is another excellent type that will appear in the new mode. The Vionnet wrap-around model, characterized by the diagonal closing, will continue to be good. Both the latter types are smartly belted.

BRITISH LAW HITS BISHOP

London, Jan. 24 (AP)—"If the present law was strictly applied, the Bishop of Birmingham and many of his modernist colleagues would be behind prison bars," exclaimed Ernest Thurtle, Labor member for Shoreditch, in the House of Commons today.

He was moving second reading of a private members' blasphemy laws amendment bill. The bill aims to prevent the institution of criminal proceedings for so-called religious blasphemy, heresy and atheism.

In recent years a change has taken place in the interpretation of the law, with the result that inequality has been created between literary men who attack the Christian religion and the lesser educated person expressing the same views more crudely, Thurtle argued.

"I AM ONLY TOO GLAD TO RECOMMEND BON-TONE FOR THE GOOD RESULTS I RECEIVED"

Miss Leah Deveau of 64 Alexander street, Dorchester, Mass., states: "For the last year or so my health was quite poor—I think I was in a general rundown condition. After eating, I would have considerable gas and a very heavy feeling in the pit of my stomach. I was also more or less subject to headaches; and I was continually feeling tired out, with no life or ambition. I was always troubled with my bowels, and was continually taking laxatives trying to get a movement. All these symptoms worried me a good deal and I became very nervous, and was very restless at night after retiring.

"When a friend of mine who had used Bon-Tone and received very good results suggested that I try it, I was a bit skeptical, but finally went to Epstein's Drug Store and bought a bottle. I could notice an improvement on the first bottle, particularly in my bowels. I have now used three bottles of Bon-Tone, and the results I have received have been away beyond my expectations. I am going to continue the use of Bon-Tone, as I think a few more bottles will give me back my former good health. I am only too glad to recommend Bon-Tone for the good results I have received."

There are many more people in or near Boston who have had the same experience. Coming, rather skeptical, to try Bon-Tone, they have gone away rejoicing in their renewed health and vigor, and praising the tonic whose merits they once had doubted. Profit by the experience of others—get your Bon-Tone today.

Go to Epstein Drug Co., Inc., Scollay Square, Boston, and meet our representative. He will explain more about Bon-Tone to you.

For your convenience Bon-Tone is for sale in South Boston at John S. Austin's Drug Store, Perkins Square, and in Cambridge at the Cole Drug Co., 636 Mass. Ave., Central Square.

RUSSIAN ENVOY SOON TO QUIT

Mexico City, Jan. 24 (INS)—To complete the severance of diplomatic relations between this country and Soviet Russia, Dr. Alexander Makar, Soviet minister to Mexico, will be expected by the Mexican Government to board the next steamer leaving this country.

The Mexican minister to Moscow is already on the way out of Russia, accompanied by the entire legation staff, leaving only a caretaker in charge of archives.

In announcing severance of relations with Moscow, the Mexican Government held the Soviet Government directly responsible for recent Communist demonstrations before Mexican embassies in North and South American cities.

A statement given out by Genaro Estrado, Mexican foreign minister, said:

"Mexico knows perfectly well that this propaganda against our institutions has been prepared and directed from Russia. It also knows that Russian communist groups neither work nor can work independently, since any political organization whatsoever of that country is subject to the Soviet government."

Drives His Auto Into the Ocean

Skidding on the Lynn Shore drive today, a car driven by Richard Furey of Victory rd., mounted the sidewalk, knocked over a concrete bench, crashed through an iron railing and dropped 30 feet over a stone breakwater into four feet of ocean.

Police and firemen responding to a dozen emergency phone calls found Furey calmly standing in the water, surveying his automobile, which was not damaged. He was taken to Lynn Hospital for treatment for immersion and a few bruises.

Use Axe to Free Man From Teeth of Mule

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 24 (AP)—Easel Wilson has a few teeth marks on one ankle to remind him of the stubbornesse of his mule, and the mule is dead. The animal slipped on ice and got tangled in the harness. He grabbed Wilson's ankle when being extricated.

Even a blow with an axe that broke the mule's jaw failed to free the ankle. Then the mule got a fatal blow on the head.

COMPLETE DINNER MENU

Company coming next Sunday? Why—er—, add an extra star to your culinary crown by serving the complete dinner menu prepared in the Martha Lee Cooking Classes this week? How does it appeal to you?

Clear Tomato Soup with Croutons
Fillet Mignon with Mushroom Sauce
Stuffed Onions
Pineapple Sweet Potatoes
Royal Salad
Apricot Cream Cake
Coffee

The tomato soup, we admit, came out of a can, but when Martha had added ½ spoonful of this, and a dash of that, and a sprinkling of something else, and had topped it with golden brown croutons fried in butter, it was soup worthy to be spelled with a capital S.

The fillet mignons proved to be tenderloin steak which Martha shaped in rounds, broiled, arranged on top, spread with lemon butter and covered with the world's best brown mushroom sauce.

Large mild onions with centers removed and sausage meat substituted for filling were baked in a thin white sauce, and the other vegetable proved to be a blend of sweet potatoes, crushed pineapple, cream and seasonings topped with a delicately browned marshmallow or two.

Royal salad, combined fresh pineapple, diced cucumber and shredded pimientos with lemon gelatine and seasonings, is made as follows:

ROYAL SALAD

1 pkg. lemon-flavored gelatine
1 cup pineapple juice
2 tbsps. pineapple, very finely diced or grated
1 medium cucumber, cut fine, salted and drained
1 cup boiling water
1 tbsp. vinegar
¼ cup Spanish pimientos, shredded fine

Dissolve the lemon-flavored gelatine in boiling water. Add pineapple juice and vinegar. Chill, and when slightly thickened, add 2 tbsps. very finely diced or grated pineapple, Spanish pimientos, shredded fine, cucumber cut fine, salted and drained. Turn into individual moulds. Chill until firm. Serve with cream salad dressing or mayonnaise to which whipped cream has been added.

The apricot cream cake was a real world beater. Two layers of fluffy lightness with an apricot filling and whipped cream topping. Here's the recipe.

APRICOT CREAM CAKE

5 eggs, beaten separately
1 tbsp. boiling water
1 1-3 cups pastry flour, sifted before measuring
1 cup granulated sugar
2 tsps. lemon juice
1½ tsps. baking powder

Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored, add sugar gradually and continue beating. Add lemon juice and boiling water. Sift baking powder with the flour and stir in well. Fold in beaten whites last. This makes two nine-inch layers. Bake in moderate oven.

APRICOT FILLING

Stew one-half pound apricots with one-half cup granulated sugar. Mash through a sieve, making a fine pulp. Spread between the layers of cake. Top cake with sweetened whipped cream. One-half cup of whipping cream is sufficient. Sprinkle nuts over the whipped cream if desired.

A few copies of this company dinner lesson sheet are available to members of the Martha Lee Women's Club, who will write giving their registered club number.

Here's Where You Can Get Free Recipe Books

This free recipe book service is just one of the fascinating features of the Martha Lee Cooking School. Here's a better business girl getting her copy of the do's and don'ts of biscuit making.

MARKET TOWER

Springlike vegetables displayed in the markets are in striking contrast to the snow-covered streets. Hot house rhubarb and dandelion greens are among the newest offerings. Shipments of green peas from the Mexican west coast show a large increase over last year so they are plentiful in the markets and priced low, 15-25c lb.

Florida green beams are moderately priced and new bunched carrots are only 5-10c. Tomatoes are costly and good ones are scarce. Severe Texas frosts may later affect the receipts and prices of some vegetables. Very few new potatoes have reached Boston markets.

The cold weather makes meat stews and fish chowders especially acceptable main-course dishes and economical, too. Stew lamb 17-18c, stew beef 25-30c, stew veal 12½-22c and haddock and cod are moderately priced today.

Butter prices are still low and cheese (mild and young American) quotations are commonly 33c lb.

TEXAS FIG STUFFED COOKIES

½ c. shortening
1 c. sugar
1 egg
½ c. syrup from figs
3 c. flour
3 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. grated orange rind—optional
1 c. Texas figs, drained and chopped.

Cream shortening and sugar, add well-beaten egg, then fig syrup and lastly the flour, baking powder and salt sifted together. Roll out on well-floured board, cut in rounds and place in center of round a tsp. of chopped figs with which orange rind has been blended, wet edges and cover with another round pressing and crimping edges together. Bake on greased cookie sheets in moderately hot oven 10 to 12 minutes.

TEXAS FIG PUDDING

Aren't you enthusiastic about the new Texas figs that come packed in convenient tin containers? Of course, we all know that figs have been highly prized for ages as well balanced nourishing food that supplies the elements necessary for sturdy growth and bodily vigor. But in this new form they are especially delicious and tempt you to try the many delightful dishes they make possible. For instance, these luscious fig stuffed cookies.

ALL KINDS OF FOOD COVERED

Would you like to own a complete culinary library—the latest recipes and lectures of world-famous authorities? And without charge of any kind?

You can if you are a member of one of Martha Lee's cooking classes, or the Martha Lee Women's Club. For, in the class room, at 5 Winthrop sq., you will find a mahogany rack always full of the newest and most helpful recipe books and leaflets.

Some of these books, if bound in cloth, would readily sell for $2 apiece or more, for they are by recognized authorities, principals of cooking schools, famous dietitians, chefs and other culinary experts.

FREE TO PUPILS

America's largest food manufacturers co-operate with Martha Lee in furnishing this valuable service to her pupils and club members by supplying her with generous quantities of these valuable books.

A world-famous baking powder company, for instance, publishes a complete cook book which covers everything from Angel Cake and Apple Dressing for Duck, to Waffles and Watermelon Pickle. I've never seen its equal in a bound volume under $2.

In addition to that, they furnish a special book on biscuit making, giving a master recipe and 10 delicious variations. A master recipe for muffins is also included, as well as menus and other helpful hints.

Special books of recipes on salads and desserts to be made in an electric refrigerator are always in the rack, as well as books on cake making, salads and salad dressings, desserts, meats, pastries, cheese dishes, and what-nots.

A COMPLETE LIBRARY

When the food manufacturer sends us any 1000 of these beautifully illustrated reliable recipe books, it represents real money, but no charge of any kind is made to you.

These books are distributed in addition to the Martha Lee recipe sheets given out at each lesson to class members. So between them all, there is no reason why you should not have a complete culinary library actually worth many dollars.

ICE TRAYS OF RUBBER

One of the most precious features of our beloved new electric refrigerator in the Martha Lee Kitchen is its equipment in one of the trays of something brand new in the refrigerator world—an ice tray made of purest crepe rubber instead of metal.

This last word in convenience makes it possible to remove one cube or as many as you wish, daintily.

No more wet and cold hands, no more washing of spilled cubes, no more towels. A touch of your finger and off comes each cube, dry, hard, sharp edged, and full-sized. You can pick them up with the tongs and place them in your glasses untouched by human hands.

Think of the water spots this new invention is going to save. You know how it is—you usually want your ice cubes in a hurry. A few friends drop in for bridge and you dash out in the kitchen after the game to prepare a cold drink and maybe some sandwiches.

The hurry is disastrous. Your best chiffon spots easily splashing water—and so does husband's shirt front and cuff edges—not to mention his disposition.

With the new crepe rubber trays you can remove the central cubes in five minutes and all the cubes in 15 seconds. Time yourself removing all the cubes from the metal tray in contrast. You get all your ice, too, not part of it as when you hold a metal tray under a faucet and melt part of the ice.

These rubber trays will serve you well and long, for they are made of the purest and highest grade special formula rubber that will not carry either taste or odor to the ice cubes.

Enroll Now for April Classes

We regret so much that we were unable to accommodate hundreds of the applicants for reservations in Martha Lee's mid-winter classes for Brides and Business Girls, as well as the housewife school. Our seating capacity is limited, as you know, and many registered last October.

A word to the wise is sufficient who send in your registration now for the spring classes which will open on April 1 and 2.

And another suggestion. Wouldn't you like to feel that you are a member of Martha Lee's big family? Then drop her a line and she will be glad to send you a membership ticket in her women's club, with your own special registered number which will entitle you to the many pleasures and privileges of this unique organization for New England girls and women.

Here's Recipe for Dainty Pudding

JACK'S PUDDING

2 c. boiling water
1 tsp. salt
½ c. raisins
Apples
Cinnamon

Put water and salt in upper part of double boiler. When boiling, add raisins slowly so that the water does not stop boiling. Boil five minutes. Place over hot water and cook one hour. Place a layer of cooked raisins in a baking dish, cover with pared, sliced apples, sprinkle lightly with sugar and cinnamon; continue until the dish is full.

Cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) until apples are thoroughly done and the crumbs are brown. Serve with cream. Serves six.

DESSERTS IN HURRY

Every day we find fresh virtues in our new electric refrigerator. Now we've discovered how to make a delicious emergency dessert.

Just turn the contents of a can of crushed pineapple, strawberries or other fruit right into the refrigerator tray and in from 30 minutes to one hour it will be frozen in a mush. Served in sherbet glasses, topped with flavored and whipped cream, this frozen fruit forms a delicious dessert.

GOOD FOR SKIN

In addition to its recipe uses, lemon juice is a valuable beauty aid. The juice of two lemons added to a wash-bowl of water makes a hair rinse that cuts the soap curd of the shampoo and leaves the hair exquisitely soft and fluffy.

A teaspoon of lemon juice in a cup of warm water for the manicure removes stains from skin and nails and loosens the cuticle more satisfactorily than can be done with any instrument.

Equal parts of lemon juice and glycerine makes the finest skin lotion.

A cut lemon should always be kept in a saucer by the kitchen sink and in the bathroom to be applied to the hands. It will neutralize alkalies, remove dirt and stains, whiten the skin and keep it smooth and kill odors such as fish and onion.

4 O'CLOCK TEA HELPS

Here's justification for that pleasant habit of afternoon tea drinking: Physicians tells us that 4 o'clock is the "zero hour," the hour when energy and vitality are the lowest, when ambition has ebbed far out and left us at the mercy of "nerves" and other irritations.

Tea is a well-known stimulator when you get the yawny, dowdy feeling, try relaxing over a cup or two of hot tea. Don't gulp it down in a rush, but linger over it, make a ceremony of it.

Invite one or two neighbors in to share your "party." You'll be surprised how fresh and perky you'll feel for the rest of the day, and many a firm friendship has been knit over the intimate tea-cup.

WRECK DOOMS 100 INNOCENTS

Buenos Aires, Jan. 24 (INS)—Shipwrecked in the Straits of Magellan, approximately 100 of the 1100 passengers of the German tourist steamer Monte Cervantes today faced the possibility of spending a fortnight with some of the world's most dangerous criminals.

Most of the shipwrecked passengers were taken aboard the Argentina transport Vincente Lopez when the Monte Cervantes went ashore in Beagle Channel in the Straits of Magellan, but 100 of them, because of insufficient accommodations, had to be landed at the Argentine penal colony at Ushuia.

The Argentine government is taking all possible steps to remove the passengers from this lonely outpost, but it will be at least 12 days before rescue ships can reach them. In the meantime, they will have to get along as best they can with convicted murderers and assassins as their companions.

Reports here indicate that the tourist ship, a vessel of 13,000 tons, will be a total loss.

ANTI-FILIPINO RIOTS SPREAD

Watsonville, Cal., Jan. 24 (AP)—Racial hatred, inflamed by the employment of white dancing girls in a Filipino club here, seethed again in the Santa Clara valley today as the outcome of two clashes at San Jose, in which one white man was stabbed and four Filipinos were badly beaten.

The latest outbreak occurred while armed patrols were guarding streets and highways here to prevent recurrence of the fighting that has raged intermittently for five days, resulting in the death of one Filipino, the flogging of several others and the arrest of seven men on rioting charges.

Alfred Johnson, 22, was twice stabbed in the back while he was watching a clash between Filipinos and whites at San Jose. There were two fights, two Filipinos having been beaten in each. Police said white men were the aggressors in each case.

Discovery of an alleged Filipino pamphlet called "The Torch," to which was attributed the statement that "Filipinos have as much right to American girls as Americans," was reported to peace officers.

City officials closed pool halls and similar places of amusement early. Members of the American Legion joined peace officers in preserving order.

WALTHAM MINISTER, DIVORCED, OFFERS TO QUIT

A Wonderful Love Story by Author of 'Hollywood Girl,' 'Easy.'

What has happened before:
Tom Nicholson and his young and beautiful wife are happy with their baby and tiny bungalow until wealthy neighbors, the Aldersons, come into their lives. Mrs. Alderson, whose husband is elderly has an affair with a man named "Jack." Tom's suspicions are unjustly directed to Lovejoy when Jack telephones and hangs up abruptly. Lovejoy speaks to Mrs. Alderson about it.
Now go on with the story.

Chapter 12

ALINE'S story was short, but it was not sweet.

As a matter of fact, it was anything but sweet.

And yet, in its way, it was a love story.

"This man who calls me up—he thinks he's in love with me," she told Lovejoy that morning," and I just don't know how to get rid of him. I'm all upset about it. Remember how flustered I was yesterday morning when I had that call of his switched over to yourhouse?"

Lovejoy did remember.

She remembered, too, how Aline had made a date with him for that afternoon—and how eagerly she had gone to keep it!

"Do you honestly want to get rid of him?" she found herself asking.

It seemed to her that a married woman who really wanted to put a man out of her life ought not to find it so very hard.

"Yes, I do," Aline answered slowly. "But I know that I've got to do it slowly and carefully. There isn't really much to the whole silly affair, but I'd hate to have my husband hear about it."

Her blue eyes traveled round the room as if they were counting up the things that her husband meant to her—the gold-topped brushes and bottles on the dressing table, the beautiful furniture, the fresh flowers in the sunny window, the breakfast tray with its silver coffee pot and hot-milk jug.

"I've been trying to let Jack down easily," she went on, flushing as she let the man's name slip from between her lips. "I've been breaking engagements with him every now and then—but he keeps calling me up. And I'm so afraid my husband may answer the 'phone some time. You see, he's one of our best friends. One of my husband's best friends."

She stopped and struck a match to a cigarette that she took from a silver box on the window sill beside her.

"So I thought I'd ask him to write to me instead of calling me up so much," she said, with a tiny bit of tobacco from her tongue with her delicate pointed fingers. "But I can't bring myself to write to cause my maid would be sure to know where they were from if she saw the post mark. She knows all our friends."

She gave Lovejoy an imploring look.

"If you'd let me tell him to send his letters to you—Alice has a daughter, not a slender, well-kept hand for the little black instrument that can mean so much danger and so much safety and so much happiness and trouble. "Quick! Tell me!"

"Yes, I guess so," Lovejoy replied uncertainly. "I must go now. I can hear the baby crying."

The last thing she heard, as she hurried out of the room, was Aline giving her name and the address of the little bungalow to the man she called Jack.

"Mrs. Thomas Nicholson, 33 Stirlings lane." Her light voice followed Lovejoy down the wide stairs

That night Tom came home with a check in his pocket. It was a check for two hundred dollars, and was for Lovejoy.

"There's the money you wanted,"

CENTENNIAL AT BLIND SCHOOL

Beginning its second century of service, the famed Perkins Institute for the Blind is now making plans for its centennial celebration. Nearly 300 boys and girls without sight are at the institution under care of 60 highly trained teachers.

They are living under a system unparalleled elsewhere in the world. This plan is known as the cottage system. Instead of living in huge dormitories the children are grouped in small houses, to the ratio of 20 pupils and five teachers, with a matron and cook.

The sightless children are taught how to make pottery, baskets, woodwork and even to make a piano. The recreational and physical side is a big feature, for all are required to take gymnasium training. The cost for caring for one pupil for a year is about $1000, of which the State pays $400.

ICE CARNIVAL OPENS TODAY

The second annual winter carnival sponsored by the Blue Hills Recreation Club at "St. Moritz" in the Blue Hills, Quincy, got under way today with a spectacular opening and will continue Saturday and Sunday.

During the opening day several skiing contests were staged with international stars performing. Many fancy skating exhibitions and tobaggan races were on the program.

Tonight, starting at 7 o'clock, a parade led by Miss Dorothy Curry of West Quincy, who has been crowned "Queen of St. Moritz," will form in Quincy sq., and march to West Quincy and thence to the carnival grounds. The parade will be made up of several fraternal organizations, bands, colorful floats and several hundred men and women in winter carnival costumes.

Tomorrow all contestants in the various events will try out for places for the final events that will be staged Sunday afternoon. The prizes to the winners will be presented by Mayor Thomas McGrath of Quincy, who has been personally interested in the success of the affair.

Dies in Ambulance on Way to Hospital

Taken suddenly ill in his office William G. Collyer, 51, vice president of the Henry A. Wheeler Co., Commercial st., North End, died in an ambulance en route to Haymarket relief station today.

Death is believed to have resulted from natural causes. His home is in Saratoga st., East Boston.

Perfilieff Will Speak in Boston Twice

His first American word learned was "cocka-tail."

The first machine he mastered was a wheelbarrow.

He was the only painter John Singer Sargent urged to be his pupil.

These are but a few of the highlights of the career of Capt. Vladimir Perfilieff, Russian Cossack, artist, globe trotter, athlete and lecturer. He is here for his fifth visit to Boston and will address a benefit meeting tomorrow for the education of Russian youth

This burly young Cossack, a colorful character, is here at the invitation of a group of Bostonians headed by Mrs. Ralph Adams Cram and others. His lectures will be open to the public at the Exeter st. theater at 11 o'clock Saturday and at the same hour and place the following Saturday.

FILMS OF THE MONKS.

The lecture will be illustrated by 4000 feet of motion pictures, featuring the lives of monks in "no woman's land" in the obscure wastes of distant continents.

Capt. Perfilieff has cut out all "captions" in his movie reels and will talk along with the picture, explaining what is flashed on the screen.

This man has had an amazing career, which began as the son of the governor of a Russian province. He went through the traditional Cossack service and was at the front when the revolution of Russian peasants developed

MOWED PROFESSOR'S LAWN.

The young captain left for America, his only baggage being a Russian flag. His only English word upon arriving here was "cocka-tail," and he had to take the first job offered, as he was "dead broke," he says.

This job was mowing the lawn for a Princeton professor.

Three times has the Cossack visited Princeton in one of the strangest dramas which he says is so typical of American life.

His first visit was as a young Russian diplomat touring the country.

His second visit was as an untutored immigrant youth who mowed the lawn of a Princeton professor

His third visit—this recently—was as a lecturer to the faculty of Princeton'

Since learning how to guide a balky wheelbarrow, the Russian went to Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts for four years. For four years he studied with Sargent and since has become one of the best known Eastern painters.

HIS WORK PRAISED

His art work is annually exhibited in Philadelphia, New York and Chicago—and rated as enormously clever.

"America is a great coun-tree," conceded the Cossack, "and believe you me, I get a great big keek out of it."

Every year the young man gets the wanderlust. A few years ago he batted around the country in an old Ford with a home-made tent, covering 17,000 miles and learning America at first hand. He went into all New England states.

Incidentally, this lecture tomorrow is the first of its kind ever given in the United States. The religious recluses in the monasteries are notably opposed to public attention, and the young captain obtained these pictures only because he was brought up in that faith.

HITS CONCORD LIGHT RATE

The Public Utilities Commission was today asked by Atty. Wycliffe C. Marshall, representing petitioners seeking a reduction in rates from the Edison Electric Co. of Boston, to require the company to explain in a recent offer to supply current to the municipal plant at Concord.

The Edison company has been in negotiation with the town of Concord about Edison service under terms which on their face are a burden upon the company's rate payers.

The price at which the company is to sell its current to Concord will average 11¼ cents a kilowatt hour in spite of the fact that the current is to be supplied by an expensive underground transmission system of two cables in a four-duct conduit from the Lexington sub-station of the Edison Co., which in turn is connected with Woburn and Waltham sub-stations by other expensive underground transmission lines.

"Another bad feature of the transaction is the Edison offer to pay $600,000 for $175,000 worth of Concord's electric plant and to agree to have the assessed valuation at $600,000 instead of $175,000."

Caledonians to Hold Burns Night

Reservations for the Burns Night entertainment and dance at the Hotel Statler tonight by the Boston Caledonian Club indicate the gathering will be the largest the organization ever held.

The doors of the ballroom will open at 7 o'clock and the concert will begin at 8. Chief Rowie will lead the grand march at 10.30 and dancing will continue to 2 a m. Governor Allen, Mayor Curley and British Consul Grey will be present with other notables of the State and city

Girl Sailor in Hub Has Been to Sea 16 Years

"The best little sailor I ever saw"!

With this commendation, Capt Christopher S. C. Cherry, master of the American Levant liner Rhodes Tigris, today described his most cherished sailing companion, after the liner docked here, from Egypt.

Little wonder he spoke with pride, for that same companion is none other than his 22-year-old daughter, Connie, a sailing miss since she toddled about the deck of a ship at the age of three

The trip just ended, however was her longest—to America, the Mediterranean and back to America, 20,000 miles of sea thrills.

Born with love of the sea in her blood, Miss Cherry finds more "relaxation" in a howling gale at sea than she would at all the dances and such in America, she says

KNOWS HER SHIPS

But she has a weakness, peculiar to her sex—the call of window shopping

No sooner had the ship docked at East Boston than the fair mistress of the sea forsook her salty surroundings to visit the Boston department stores, with a Cunard stenographer as her guide

It was just a temporary urge, she said, but she just had to see the shops before her seafaring father hauled his lines to "turn with the sun" and make for open sea.

From her trips with her father Miss Cherry has gleaned a knowledge of ships and their navigation of world marts and resorts, that she wouldn't part with for anything in the world

MASTERS SAILOR'S KNOT

Born at County Waterford Ireland, the second daughter of Captain Cherry, she found herself in a sea-faring family whose records date back to the Battle of Trafalgar.

Captain Cherry's father before him was a ship's skipper and has through the generations the Cherry family followed the sea

Little wonder then that on Miss Connie should master the deep problems of the deep, the difficult sailor's knots with the skill of a veteran and laugh at the fury of a gale in mid-ocean.

Like many of her sex, born for romance, she learned to tie the "true lover's knot" first. Many others she has mastered during the quiet nights in her father's cabin.

Parts of a vessel are names by her as readily as the average housewife would name kitchen knacks around her kitchen

At the age of three, Connie "signed on" for her first voyage, a short trip off the coast of Ireland.

Until last fall she had never been to America or had taken any trip of any length

Last October, however, as her father was ending two months leave she begged permission to go and sailed with him on the Commander Tiberius from Southampton to pick up the River Tigris at New York.

From that port she made the trip to Gibraltar, Oran, Alexandria, Jaffa, Haifa, Beyrouth, Alexandretta, Mersine, Cyprus and Greece

Michigan Governor to Dine With Curley

That Governor Fred W Green of Michigan is coming here next month as commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, was revealed when Mayor Curley announced that he will give a luncheon in the distinguished visitor on February 22, in conjunction with exercises which will be held in commemoration of the sinking of the Maine

DECISION IS PUT UP TO HIS FLOCK

Seventy-six of Congregation Want Him to Leave Their Church

The Rev Walter H. Commons, D.D., recently divorced, will resign his pastorate at the First Congregational Church, Waltham.

After Easter, he told a meeting of the church congregation, he will tender his resignation and leave it to a vote of the congregation as to whether they wish him to leave or to remain as pastor.

This action grows out of a petition, circulated a few weeks ago and signed by 76 members of the congregation, requesting that the standing committee of the church ask for the pastor's resignation.

Among signers of the petition were Prof. Walter H. James of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Supt. of Schools William H. Slayton and the Rev. Frederick H. Page, D. D., pastor emeritus of the church

Dr. Commons today confirmed the report that at the meeting he had offered to tender his resignation after the Lenten and Easter season. He said it was because of his divorce

Dr. Commons obtained a divorce from Mrs. Evelyn T. Commons last September after nearly 30 years of married life

He charged cruel and abusive treatment arising from religious incompatibility, and testified that she struck him on several occasions and mocked his religious beliefs.

A 26-year-old son, William Commons, testified for the father.

The Commons were married on New Year's Day, 1901, and before going to Waltham, lived in Westfield, East Weymouth and Whitinsville. Mrs. Commons is now a resident of Brooklyn, N. Y.

MERCURY GOES DOWN TO ZERO

Zero and sub-zero temperatures were reported from many places near Boston today as the weather bureau reported below zero.

Temperatures for the next 24 hours, together with fair weather

The mercury climbed all through the night and was at its lowest point at 6, 7 and 8 a. m. today, just when the trek toward work had to begin.

Although the official minimum temperature was 14 above zero at the weather bureau in Boston, it was several degrees lower in nearby suburbs and below zero just beyond

Some of the marks recorded were: Bedford, 4 below; Burlington, 6 below; Concord, zero; Melrose and Wakefield, 8 above; Medford, 10 above. Shawsheen Village, Andover, reported below zero.

Western Massachusetts was much colder. It might console those who shivered to know that the official reading at Lander, Wyoming, the coldest spot on the government weather map, was 20 below zero. On the other hand, the mercury went up 12 degrees and more in the Mississippi and Ohio river valleys.

New York, Jan 24 (AP)—Starting last night the thermometer registered a steady decline to 32 degrees at 6 a m today, where it remained for three hours.

A bright sun started it climbing back up again at 9 o'clock.

Harvard Professor Honored by Vienna

Dr. Joseph Redlich, Charles Stebbins Fairchild professor of comparative law at Harvard Law School, was today made an honorary citizen of Vienna, according to cabled advices to that city.

Dr. Radlich was born 70 years ago of German parents in Moravia. He was educated in Vienna and received the degree of doctor of law. He figured prominently in Austrian and German politics and represented Austria several times in this country.

He first came here in 1910 as Godkin lecturer at Harvard.

17 Chelsea Firemen Are Transferred

Seventeen members of the Chelsea fire department were shifted to different positions today in the long-awaited shakeup anticipated since the recent conference between Mayor John J. Whalen and Chief David M. Hudson. The chief announced that no officers or department heads would be changed, and confined the list entirely to privates. Four members of the fire prevention bureau were put back on engine duty and were replaced by four others. All changes became effective Sunday.

FARM AND INDUSTRY CO-OPERATION N. E. PROSPERITY KEYNOTE

MUST WORK AS ONE, SAYS R. M. HUDSON

Executive of N. E. Council Urges Rapid Adoption of Marketing Program

"By working together, New England industry and the New England farmers will fare better, live longer and be happier, Ray M. Hudson, industrial executive of the New England Council, asserted in a radio address over Station WBZA today.

Hudson, former assistant director of the United States Bureau, said New England's agricultural population has a direct economic interest in the prosperity of New England industries.

The chief problems of New England farmers, he explained, are the same which face any business man.

CITES HOOVER PLANS

He called attention to the fact that President Hoover's suggestions for business stabilization included the immediate purchasing of equipment and good which all business men know to be necessary in 1930.

New England's urban population, Hudson declared, provides a large market for standardized quality products of all kinds, and is already buying large quantities of food products on a quality basis.

Therefore, he declared, the rapid adoption of the New England farm marketing program, sponsored by the New England Council, on the part of New England agricultural producers, provides a way by which New England farmers can take advantage of the preference of urban consumers for standardized, graded, labelled, quality products.

MUCH IN COMMON

"New England industry and New England agriculture have much in common," he declared. "They are now of great value to one another. Both can be of much greater service and help to each other as they come to understand each others' problems better. For it is the law of nature that to live, we must work, and to eat we must work.'

"By working together, in and for each others' interest, New England industry and agriculture will both fare better, live longer and higher. That is the real significance of New England's industry to New England's agriculture."

Seeking Clues to Safe Breakers

2 AUTO SAFES LOOTED OF CASH

Yeggmen pried open two large safes at the Franklin Motor Car Co. office, 594 Commonwealth ave., early today and made their escape with an undetermined sum.

Inspectors Dorsey and Decker of headquarters took photographs of finger prints on the wrecked strong boxes. Special Officers Dodge and Blood of Back Bay division were assigned to hunt other clues.

The thieves entered by an open window from an alley.

This is pay day at the Franklin plant, and the crackmen may have thought the payroll money was in one of the safes, but, according to officials of the company, it had not yet been delivered by the bank.

Plan Celebration of Evacuation Day

Plans for the municipal celebration of Evacuation Day, March 17, agreed upon by Mayor Curley and the South Boston Citizen's Association at a City Hall conference during which the appointment of Edward C. Carroll of the Michael J. Perkins Post of the American Legion as chief marshal of the parade was confirmed.

The mayor promised to revive the customary holiday breakfast for the chief marshal and his staff and he agreed to make every effort to break ground for the new L at Dorchester bathhouse and Columbus park improvements, at a cost of $750,000, as a part of the day's program.

Plan for Palestine Parliament Opposed

The Zionist colony in Palestine is not yet ready for its own parliament, Maj. Daniel Hopkin, labor member of the British Parliament, told Boston Zionists at Mishkan Tefila School.

Maj. Hopkin is a veteran of the Gallipoli campaign and fought with the Jewish Legion in Palestine. He is touring America in the interests of Zionism, and was greeted officially by Mayor Curley and Governor Allen.

"Since the events of last August," he said, "many schemes have been put forward to regulate the relationship of Jew and Arab in Palestine.

"Many of them have had a perfectly innocent appearance, but most of them, on close examination, revealed their true purpose of sidetracking the policy of the Balfour declaration. The police Zionists must pay for their idealism is eternal vigilance. They can console themselves with the fact that their ideal is worth struggling for.

"The latest plan is to set up a parliament in Palestine on the basis of the population ratios—that is—the proportion of six non-Jews to one Jew. There have been two forms taken on, a free parliament limited in power by having three reserved subjects and a free parliament with full power.

"The first plan is advocated by a distinguished Jewish scholar, who in company with Dr. Weizmann and all Zionists, is anxious for peace and good will with the Arabs. He proposes to set up a legislature assembled together with a democratic political regime, so carefully planned that immigration, settlement of the land and Hebrew life and culture cannot be infringed. Two houses would be set up, the lower with an enormous Arab majority, and the upper on the basis of equality, representing Arabs, Jews and British. The plan is impractical.

"With a completely free parliament, with no reserved points, Palestine would go back to its prewar position.

"The first thing that must be done is to establish law and order. The home government must declare its policy once more, and then local government can start from the beginning."

New Course in Export Problems

Students of export problems will have opportunity for helpful discussion in a new course which will open next Friday at Boston University College of Business Administration, Prof. Leo Drew O'Neil, director of the evening division, has announced.

The course members will attempt to solve actual foreign merchandising problems.

Valerie Ramirez of "Whoopee," is wearing the BEAUTY BOB. PROPER CARE keeps her hair in such wonderful condition.

"Hair that fairly sparkles with new life and lustre!"

It's important to have your hair arranged to suit your type. The effect is lost, though, unless your hair is kept soft, lustrous, abundant.

This is easily done. A million busy women and girls know how. They put a little Danderine on the brush each time they arrange their hair. Try Danderine tonight and see how marvelously it cleanses your hair, gives it new life and lustre.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; soothes, heals the scalp; stimulates the growth of long, silky, abundant hair. It makes the hair easy to manage, holds it in place for hours. Waves "set" with it, look nicer and stay in longer! Five million bottles used a year proves its popularity.

LIGGETT'S TALK HAS LEADERS WORRIED

See a Prediction of Defeat in Reference to Dry; Mrs. Rogers Not Answered

Bay State Republicans were visibly perturbed today over the statement in Washington, attributed to Louis K. Liggett, Republican national committeeman from Massachusetts, that the Republicans would be "saddled with a dry" in the senatorial fight.

Liggett's discussion of the prohibition phase of the campaign, which caused a sensation in Washington, brought from Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers the declaration:

"I think it is about time someone said something to Mr. Liggett."

By many political fence-viewers the Liggett statement that while Massachusetts is preponderantly wet, the Republicans are handicapped by dry candidates, was looked upon as a virtual forecast of defeat months before the election.

The mildest comment by Republicans on his statement was that Liggett had been "indiscreet."

Today the national committeeman was back in Boston, preparing to leave tonight for several weeks in Florida. On his return to the Hub he attempted to take the sting out of his Washington remarks by declaring: "We are going to have a Republican Senator to succeed Senator Gillett."

Wets in the ranks of the Bay State Republicans were jubilant over the Liggett statement at the capital, but the ardent drys were keenly disappointed in their committeeman.

Mrs. James M. Curley is reflecting the optimism and good cheer of her husband, showing improvement in health ever since Mayor Curley's inauguration.

Seek City Swimming Pool in Newton

The construction of a municipal swimming pool in Newton is urged in a communication received by the board of aldermen from the Newton Center School Association.

The letter, written by Mrs. Melville D. Liming, president of the association, points out that at present many Newton residents have to go out of town to do their indoor swimming.

When BABIES are upset

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency — tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children, nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

CLASH OVER CHOICE OF JAZZ OR CLASSICS FOR HUB CONCERTS

MORE MONEY SOUGHT FOR PROGRAMS

"Wearing of the Green" Defended as Real Music

by J. J. Walsh

A lively debate over the musical tastes of the people of metropolitan Boston today featured a legislative hearing on two bills increasing the band concert appropriation of the Metropolitan District Commission from $30,000 to $50,000 a season.

Representative James J. Twohig of South Boston claimed that the people who attend these outdoor concerts are bored with classical stuff and want "something hot."

Former Senator John Jackson Walsh disagreed with Twohig, and contended that the concerts this tercentenary year should be the "finest manifestation of music we can have." He reminded the committee that the people are willing to be instructed and branded the modern composer as a "thief."

OPPOSED TO JAZZ.

"Do you consider jazz music degrading?" the speaker was asked.

"I do," was the emphatic answer.

"You wouldn't object if Mr. Twohig wanted it, to the playing of the 'Wearing of the Green,'" was the next question fired at Walsh.

"I consider that a classic," was the quick coms back of Walsh.

The speaker called the committee's attention to the concerts, sponsored by private subscribers, that were held last summer at the Charles River basin where great crowds gathered to hear classical programs.

URGE LARGER FUNDS

Davis B. Keniston, chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission, explained that the largest programs during the summer are put on at Nantasket. He said the programs were left to the various band leaders, that he has never heard any criticism of them, but on the contrary, received many letters of commendation.

He told the committee that the larger appropriation could be used if the legislature sought fit to make it.

Among others in favor of the increased amount for concert were Francis X. Tyrrell of Chelsea, Martin T. Joyce for the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor, Henry Grages for the Boston Central Labor Union, Senator Conde Brodbine and Rep. Thomas F. Carroll of Revere.

Chatterton, Wakefield; Alget O. Forsberg, Worcester; Stephen Hazelline, Stoneham; Lester J. Kershaw, Fall River; Ferris Moses, Boston.

Democratic Women Plan Curley Dinner

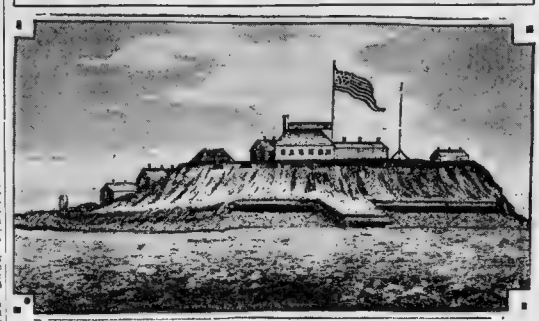
Old Boston in Pictures—No. 165



CASTLE ISLAND, shown above as it appeared in 1789, was the first island on which fortifications for the defense of Boston were erected by the Bay Colony government. So early as 1630 Samuel Maverick had built a small breastwork, on which were mounted four cannon on Noddle's Island, and two years later fortifications of a sort were placed on Copp's Hill. In 1684 John Lamford was chosen cannoneer of Boston and was voted a yearly allowance of 20 pounds by the General Court of the Colony. Two years previously Governor John Winthrop and a party, numbering about 26, surveyed points in Nantasket with the object of erecting outer fortifications, but came to the conclusion that this place was too far away to afford any real protection to the city. In March of the next year the court voted for "a moveing ffort to bee builte, 40 ffoote longe & 21 ffoote wide." For this purpose 144 pounds and 1100 four-inch plank were given, and in May, 1634, a committee was named to carry out the work. This is the last thing recorded on the proposal. July 29, 1634, Governor Winthrop and nearly the same group which went with him to Nantasket in 1632 met on Castle Island and agreed upon that site for the fort. March 4 of the next year the General Court voted: "That the ffort att Castle Island, now begun, shalbe fully pfected, the ordnance mounted, & evry other thing about it ffinished, before any other fortification be further proceeded in." The Castle was taken over by the British (as distinguished from the Colonial) military forces about 1740. It was abandoned when Boston was evacuated March 17, 1777, and the Castle shortly afterwards was named Fort Independence. More pictures of Old Boston will be printed in the Boston Evening American.

Reporter Dies After Operation

Death today took Lawrence H. ("Larry") Butters, 22, Boston Globe reporter, following an operation for appendicitis at Lawrence Memorial Hospital, Medford.

Butters was at work up to a week ago Wednesday, when he was taken ill. He was the son of John W. Butters, who, up to the time of death, was superintendent of the Globe art department. Young Butters attended the George O. Proctor grammar school, the Northern Junior and Somerville High schools, and Northeastern Law school.

Salesman Fined $100; Sold Improper Books

Having perused the literature, allegedly improper, which they were selling to Harvard students, Judge Ralph N. Smith in East Cambridge District Court today fined three New York book salesmen $100 each.

Unable to pay, the trio was remanded to Charles st. jail, where a Boston policeman awaited with warrants charging them with having obscene literature in their possession, more of the same having been found in their room at a Boston hotel.

The unlucky salesmen are Sam W. Conners and Martin Bugar, both B. Ellis of New York and Gerald of Brooklyn.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Masons Give Curley Lincoln Souvenir

A bronze plaque of Abraham Lincoln was presented Mayor James M. Curley today by Germania Lodge of Masons as a souvenir of the 75th anniversary of the lodge.

The committee that presented the plaque consisted of Joseph Brettler, master; Herman P. Dickman, senior warden, and Carl A. Weiss, chairman of the trustees. The plaque is the work of Charles A. Thomann, past master of the lodge. It is eight inches high and mounted on a black velvet background surrounded by a mahogany frame.

A book full of dictation, and she must go home; what can she tell her employer? One more girl who hasn't heard of Midol. In misery at least one day of every month, and a tiny tablet now banishes such pain in five to seven minutes! Not a narcotic, mind; nothing that has the slightest effect on the natural process peculiar to women. Midol acts directly on the organs themselves, avoids the painful part—the part that is not natural. You may have tried other things for relief at such a time, but ask about Midol; purse-size metal case is fifty cents.*

* Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Buys Six Monkeys for Old, Broken Ukulele

Six monkeys for a broken ukulele.

A canary for a pair of pants.

A handcarved Ju Ju face for a saudy bath towel.

In these days of high finance, barter such as this makes a strange story as revealed today with the arrival in Boston of the American West African freighter West Kebar at Commercial Haven docks, Northern ave., bringing many members of the ape family.

One, a boisterous chimpanzee, two years old, stands more than three feet high and is "out of the bushes" only three months. His owner, Chief Steward Thomas Rosenquist, expects to dispose of him when the vessel reaches New York tomorrow.

The most wily bargainer among the crew was Chief Engineer Harry Ferguson, who had bought six Pimians for an old ukulele that didn't even boast strings.

A pair of paint-spattered trousers attracted the eye of an African, who parted with a prettily-marked canary for them. Ferguson also acquired the Ju Ju face in exchange for the bath towel of brilliant coloring.

Chief Officer W. H. Bain sported a novel tom-tom and Chester L. Grant, second engineer, had a native's bow and a quiver filled with poison arrows used for big game hunting.

Other novelties the crew gathered included chairs and tables carved from solid blocks of cotton-wood, stuffed pillows made of billy goat skin, a miniature set of furniture made from sea beans and calabar nut dancing belts, used by women when they take part in festivals.

The West Kebar made 25 ports on her voyage and experienced temperatures ranging from more than 100 down to 12 degrees when they entered the harbor here today.

Her cargo included 5119 bags of cocoa and 122 casks of palm oil for this port and other cargo for New York.

BELLE BENNETT WILL PORTRAY A NEW MOTHER ROLE IN "COURAGE"

NAMED FOR LEADING PART

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24—Belle Bennett, professional mother and portrayer of more mournful maternal roles than any woman on the screen, will soon play another type of mother. Darryl Zanuck has signed her for the lead in "Courage," the play that Janet Beecher brought to the stage. This will give Miss Bennett plenty of chance to emote, however, and have a houseful of thankless children.

Pauline Frederick, who was to have had the part created by Miss Beecher, will not be back from her tour in time to play in "Courage." Marian Nixon, d u e back from her honeymoon, will stage her return to f i l l y w o o d and work by playing the juvenile feminine lead in Carter D a Haven, Jr., son of Carter Haven himself, will h a v e the boy's part, second in importance to that of Miss Bennett. This lad, they tell me, has great possibilities and is a chip off the old block when it comes to acting. Please pardon my slang.

IT IS curious what a great local reputation Edward Everett Horton has. He need only appear in a stage play to assure its success in Hollywood. I have often wondered if Mr. Horton is as popular throughout the country as he is in his home town. He must have some large degree of popularity, for he makes so many pictures, and I am told that James Cruze, that astute business man, has just signed him to make "Once a Gentleman." It is based on a novel by Montague George Worts, and Walter Lang will direct it. I am told that Mr. Horton has as many followers in this town as any matinee hero who ever trod the boards.

NOT in days have we had a story that created so much of a stir as the one that Charlie Chaplin had a part to play Svengali in "Trilby." Telephone calls, messages and what have you have come in thick and fast. As an aftermath of that story there came a report that Mary Lewis is being considered for "Trilby." That would mean, of course, that Charlie plans to make a talkie. For you couldn't think of Mary Lewis with that glorious voice of hers appearing in any picture without warbling a note or two. Since Lawrence Tibbett made such a tremendous success there will be more of a place for opera stars than ever before in the history of motion pictures. Inquiries at the Chaplin studio brought word that Charlie has not yet finished "City Lights," and that he expects to take a six months' trip to England, France and the Orient. At the end of that time he will come back, and I am willing to wager that he will make a talkie.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Ruth Roland, in a bright green frock and hat, discussing with Ann Harding, Kay Hammond and Joan Crawford the difficulties of having a career and running a home. The girls were at the Embassy Club at luncheon. Anita Stewart, in a smart black tailored suit, joining in the conversation and declaring herself in favor of living in an apartment. Lew Cody and Leon Errol swapping tales of the theater at the Brown Derby. Mrs. Leon Errol lunching with Mrs. Schulberg at the Embassy. Raoul Walsh back on the Fox lot taking tests for "The Oregon Trail." Dorothy Mackaill lunching with her former husband, Lothar Mendes, at the Embassy. Lothar is just back from New York. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Poem to Be "U" Talker

Universal will make a talking picture version of "Lucky." The Frank Despres poem served as the basis of a film made by the company in 1918. Tom Reed is doing the adaptation and dialogue.

Maybe a Party's in the Wind

JUDITH BARRIE AND DOUG FAIRBANKS, JR.

YOUNG DOUG evidently has something on his mind. He and Miss Barrie do emoting de luxe in the peppy "Party Girl" at the Modern and Beacon.

LAURELS FOR BERYL MERCER IN "SEVEN DAYS LEAVE"

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

"SEVEN DAYS LEAVE" is so different from the run of films that it leaves a mighty pleasant taste on the score of the spice of variety. It is light, it has no love a young dream for frosting, it is utterly devoid of feminine beauty of face and figure. And yet it stands out as a masterly portrayal, chiefly because of the new screen note it strikes, and of the acting

THIS feature picture at the Metropolitan might be called an epic of a scrubwoman's love. Because this is so. The James M. Barrie stage play throws the histrionic burden upon the shoulders of Beryl Mercer, footlight veteran and creator of the role some years ago. It is a difficult task; for Barrie asks for more than talent; he demands ability to establish an atmosphere. The "airy fairy touch" is needed when the motivation is so simple as that of a humble woman falsely claiming as her son a youth whom she has never even seen. Nearly all the usual accessories are omitted, the slender track theme must be carried through under its own power. Due to the work of Miss Mercer, backed up by satisfying effort on the part of Gary Cooper, Tempe Pigott and others, "Seven Days Leave" is made into a most interesting talking picture.

THERE is a love thread here but it is a quiet love based upon the deep yearning of a childless woman. How she carries on in wartime London by doing her bit, how she finally meets and wins over the soldier whom she has adopted already in her heart, makes a tensely gripping piece. There are smiles, there are tears. The humor is silver, the pathos golden. There are great moments. And, thanks be, the tone never drops into the mawkishly sentimental, but is maintained at the even pace of realism. Due to Miss Mercer a accord tribute for the finest characterization on the silver sheet since Mr. Arliss in "Disraeli." Though Mr. Cooper's name has the lights and the big type, it is she who lifts "Seven Days Leave" into the high place it takes.

* * *

MR. COOPER does not appear until a reel or two have been run off. When he does come, he seems ill at ease in his kiltie and his part. But before long he drops into the Barrie pall, and through most of the picture gives an excellent performance. His flapper admirers will probably bemoan the lack of a sweet heart and kissing; but they may have the comfort of knowing Mr. Cooper here shows he has real ability. Of the rest of the cast Miss Pigott is very clever as the fish-wife, Daisy Belmore and Nora Cecil are excellent as the charwomen. The direction by Richard Wallace is superb; the photoplay has speed and is consistently splendid as to balance, smoothness of action and camera sweep. Mr. Wallace has done a notable job with Mr. Barrie's The Old Lady Shows Her Medals.

ON the stage, Chief Shumatona and his Indian Reservation Band are featured in a pleasing and colorful Publix review. Shumatona has made many friends in Boston, and was given a hearty reception. Others in the presentation are Joe May and Dotty Oaks, dancers, Geraldine, and the Serova girls. The grand orchestra plays a modern selection, interspersed with classic numbers.

MARILYN WILL SEE SHOW'S PREMIERE

MARILYN MILLER, who is now rehearsing a new Ziegfeld musical comedy, will make a special trip from Gotham to attend the premiere of Ed Wynn in "Simple Simon," at the Colonial Theater.

The audience will be sprinkled with celebrities. More than 100 noted New Yorkers will come to this city to attend the opening. Prominent among them will be Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart, who wrote the music and lyrics for "Simple Simon"; Guy Bolton, who collaborated with Ed Wynn on the writing of the book, and Ziegfeld's personal representative, Stanley Sharpe.

One of the most interesting personalities in the audience will be Seymour Felix, who staged the dances. This gifted young director was responsible for the military march in "Rosalie" and the "Rainy Day" number in the motion picture, "Sunnyside Up."

Unusual interest attends the premiere as this marks the debut of Ed Wynn as a Ziegfeld star. It is of special significance to Wynn himself because it was in Boston, many years ago, that he started his commercial career before going on the stage. He has appeared here successively in the Ziegfeld Follies, "The Carnival," "The Grab Bag," "The Perfect Fool," and "Manhattan Mary."

Sam Harrison, veteran theatrical manager in charge of Ziegfeld's affairs for more than three decades, will manage the troupe.

The company numbers over 150 people and includes a number of Boston favorites; Doree Leslie, last seen here in the title role of "Manhattan Mary"; Harriet Hoctor, acclaimed as the greatest American ballerina; Betty Bassett, married this week in New York and spending her honeymoon by taking part in the premiere; Lenore Pawle, English comedian; Helen Garden, recently discovered by Ziegfeld; Hazel Forbes, organizer of the Charm, Curve and Contour Normalcy Club; and Douglas Stanbury, radio artist.

REVUE OF 1930 IS STARTED

IT was like a roll-call on Old Broadway when the cast for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Hollywood Revue of 1930" was assembled in the first scenes to be shot in Technicolor for that pretentious screen debut of the company's Culver City studio.

Several sequences of the revue, which is to be a contrast between the old and the new manners of presenting musical shows, are to be photographed through use of the Technicolor process. Among the well-known figures of the stage included in the cast are: Weber and Fields, Louis Mann, Marie Dressler, Fay Templeton, William Collier, Trixie Friganza, Josephine Sabel, Barney Fagan, DeWolf Hopper, Carlotta King, Buster Keaton, Harry Lee and Benny Rubin.

CINEMA FOLK HOBBY FANS

You must have a hobby — if you're going to be a normal, happy human being.

For years, Louise Fazenda's hobby has been antiques. All kinds. But particularly pewterware. Her home is filled with rare products of her hobbying hours.

Natalie Moorhead's hobbies are clothes and jewelry. They go hand in hand with her career as an actress, for she has built up the reputation of being one of the most beautifully dressed girls in Hollywood.

Collecting anecdotes is Monte Brice's hobby. He gathers them personally from the most famous people in the country. A group of them are ready now for publication in book form.

Robert Armstrong's hobby is the South Gate Athletic Club near Los Angeles, which he operates in partnership with James Gleason.

Ken Maynard's hobby is revealed in his collections of photographs and data of historical places and people. He recently obtained data first hand on "Billy the Kid," the notorious outlaw of the Southwest.

Nancy Carroll in "Honey"

Nancy Carroll's next starring film for Paramount will be "Honey," to be directed by Wesley Ruggles. Zasu Pitts, Skeets Gallagher, Harry Green, Stanley Smith, Johnny Howland, Lillian Roth and Charles Sellon are in the supporting cast.

ROAD TO FAME ROUGH FOR CHEVALIER

WHAT Maurice Chevalier cannot say in English, he says with his gestures. So, when this Parisian music hall favorite was told that his personality was likely to go over big on the American screen, he made known his own conviction in words and pantomime. He said:

"Wait, give me an opportunity, and I will have the American public so," and he made a gesture indicating that Americans would all be in the palm of his hand.

M. Chevalier has become a major motion picture figure in the United States. Boston now acclaims him because of his work in "The Love Parade," being shown at the Uptown and Washington St. Olympia.

No magic wand was waved to lift Chevalier from childhood poverty to fame in Continental night life. His story parallels that of Charlie Chaplin in the number of obstacles obviated in the fight for recognition.

Chevalier was born near Paris in a little town called Menilmontant. This was a few more than 30 years ago. At 11 his father died. He helped his mother support the younger children. He became an apprentice carpenter, an electrician, printer, painter and he always longed for the theater, and finally after getting and losing a hundred different jobs he got a chance to sing at the Casino des Tourelles. He received three francs an evening, about 60 cents in those days, and he sang four nights each week.

From such small beginnings he rose to be dancing partner to Mistinguett, foremost comedienne of Paris. The war came then, and Chevalier entered it, to emerge a wounded German prisoner. He escaped, disguised as a Red Cross worker, and received the honor of the Croix de Guerre.

He picked up the threads of his career where he had dropped them and joined Mistinguett again in an act at the Folies Bergere. It helped to get his name in lights. America began to figure more and more in his career, for he appeared with Elsie Janis in a revue called "Hello, America."

Hub Theatrical Lodge Plans Benefit Show

The 42d annual benefit performance, sponsored by Boston Lodge No. 2, Theatrical Mutual Association, will be given February 21, at the Colonial, with Big Brother "Bob" Emery and "Buddy" Shepard as toastmaster ceremonies. Talent will be recruited from all musical shows playing this city at the time, as well as artists from the unit shows of the Public Theaters and acts from the Keith houses.

One of the features of the program will be a burlesque skit by "Bill" Meagher of the Malden. Edward Barry of the Shubert, and James Duffy of Loew's Orpheum.

GRACE BRINKLEY

"FLYING H I G H," George White's new musical comedy, coming to the Shubert on February 3, will have Miss Brinkley in the prima donna role. Gentlemen prefer her type.

CALIFORNIA'S BEAUTIES AT KEITH-ALBEE

HARRY CARROLL, composer and producer, brings his latest group of "climate-kissed" Californians to the stage of the Keith-Albee tomorrow. Carroll is the composer of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows" and "Girl in the Heart of Maryland." Maxine Lewis, who has an exceptional contralto voice, is featured in the revue. Carroll, who has been a vaudeville favorite for years, gave RKO several years ago a revue that proved a stepping stone to bigger things for a young man who is now looked upon as one of Broadway's best liked comedians. That actor is William Demarest, now starred in "Earl Carroll's Sketch Book."

An important feature of the present Carroll offering is the youthful Eddie Burke. Burke is a native of Chicago, but a Californian by adoption.

Pat and Ann Dixon, tap dancing sisters, are also features, as are Muriel Abbott, Eleanor Smith, Catherine Reynolds, long a protege and partner of the famous Tom Patricola, and Peggy White, an acrobatic dancer of real ability.

World Premiere of "Simple Simon" Postponed

Failure of the orchestrations to arrive on schedule has caused a postponement of the world premiere of Florenz Ziegfeld's "Simple Simon," at the Colonial Theater, from Friday to Monday night.

The new musical comedy, scheduled for a two weeks' run in Boston has for its star Ed Wynn, who is supported by a brilliant cast. The postponement was announced by the Ziegfeld office, with the advice that tickets purchased for tonight's performance will be good on Monday night. Other tickets for Saturday matinee and night and Monday night may be exchanged for other performances.

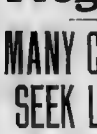
Regan Case Offers Problem to N. H. L. President

MANY CLUBS SEEK LOCAL ICE STAR

By BILL GRIMES

FOR two weeks, the New York Rangers have had Bill Regan of the Tigers on their negotiation list but they have failed to submit a satisfactory offer to the owners of the Boston club.

The Regan case is a complicated one. Regan was picked up last summer by Manager Eddie Powers of the Tigers. Although Regan has only been in professional hockey for two months, he has attracted the attention of the Bruins, Les Canadiens, Detroit, Maroons and Rangers. Of the five clubs who have sought Regan's services, the Rangers were the last to enter the field.



Bill Grimes

However, a fortnight ago, the owners of the Boston Tigers received a notice from Pres. Frank Calder of the National Hockey League that the New York Rangers had submitted written proof of having opened negotiations for Regan.

President Calder's decision, according to the by-laws of the National Hockey League, is binding only for a reasonable length of time and cannot hold through the draft season.

The offer made by the Rangers is only slightly more than the draft price and if President Calder cannot be convinced that the Tigers and Rangers cannot agree on a price for this player, the Boston club will be the loser by several thousands of dollars.

THE owners of the Boston Tigers are anxiously awaiting a hint of Pres. dent Calder's interpretation of a "reasonable length of time."

As Calder is president of the N H. L. and also commissioner of hockey, he is in a position to prolong the Regan controversy to the draft season and the Tigers will be forced to let this young star go to a N. H. L. club for $500, which is just about one-half of his value in an open market.

The Tiger-Ranger deadlock is just another reason for the minor leagues insisting upon the appointment of a neutral commissioner for professional hockey.

PRES. CALDER rendered one decision against the New York Rangers this season in the "Batt" Phillips case.

Will he render another?

Naturally the other N. H. L. clubs, and this is especially so of Les Canadiens, are up in arms against Calder's decision that the Rangers have the first call on Regan.

While the Flying Frenchmen were playing an exhibition series with the Rhode Island Reds before the opening of the season, Leo Dandurand and Cecil Hart were in conference with Manager Eddie Powers of the Tigers. Dandurand and Hart set up the rightful claim that the Tigers owed them a player in effect the favor they rendered the Tigers in sending Herb Rheaume to Boston.

PRES. CALDER was in consultation with the owners of Les Canadiens, at which time the chief executive was asked if Regan was tied up by any club. Calder, so it is alleged stated that as far as he knew, no club had a lien on the Tiger.

Then even before the Rangers knew that Regan was in the Canam League, a bona fide offer was made the Tigers for Regan by the Rangers.

GENE SARAZEN WINS $10,000

Agua Caliente, Lower California, Mexico, Jan. 24—Gene Sarazen of New York is $10,000 richer from his four days of golf here. The purse was the biggest ever in golf. Sarazen took the lead in the Agua Caliente open, just his he broke into fame in 1923.

Coming from behind he established the course record here with a 68, but instead of just taking a one-stroke lead like he did in the 1922 national open from Bobby Jones and John Black 4 Stoke, Chicago, he passed Horti Smith of Joplin, Mo., and Al Espinosa of Chicago by two strokes.

Fifty-two professionals and six amateurs played in this the richest of all golf tournaments.

MALONEY IS 10-9 CHOICE TO WIN

A HEAVYWEIGHT upset that may smear the well-laid plans of Jimmy Maloney in his campaign to punch his way to the peak of the heavyweight division is feared tonight at the Boston Garden, where the South Boston idol clashes with Armand Emanuel, Los Angeles' heavyweight, who is regarded as the cleverest of the big men in the ring.

And Maloney's entire future in the ring depends upon his ability to take the measure of Emanuel tonight for no less than six figure nuggets are hanging upon his showing.

The South Boston man always has had trouble with opponents equipped with fast shooting lefts such as Emanuel will exhibit tonight. The time has come in Maloney's career, when he cannot af-

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24—"My dear public:

"I have placed my trusty portable typewriter on a writing desk in a room on the twelfth floor of the Fleetwood Hotel. If you happen to be a radio fan, you have heard the announcement. This is Miamuh, Fla., broadcasting from the fifteenth floor of the Hotel Fleetwood.

"They now have a couple of broadcasting stations here as Johnny Buckley has located on the thirteenth floor while he arranges to move into a house which he has rented Johnny will restrict his broadcasts to telling the world how Jack Sharkey will thump Phil Scott on the chin when they clash in the battle of the palms on February 27.

CARNERA MAKES U. S. DEBUT

New York, Jan. 24—They are going to remove the leg chains from Primo Carnera, the wild man of Padua, at Madison Square Garden tonight and let him snort and snarl and romp and stomp before the very eyes of the affrighted thousands.

Six feet, nine inches by the tape and 275 pounds by the scale, the models finally is to be allowed at large after a month of captivity in America and, with his keepers at a distance for the first time, confronts the worst for "Big Boy Peterson, who has consented to assist with the exhibition.

The latter is scheduled to go 10 rounds and, if it goes ax, everybody will be violently startled, including the big boy himself. His routine calls for four fast rounds and one of the fastest finishes in the history of boxing. This is for ordinary chumps. As a valuable chump in his own right, Carena is about as ordinary as a sunglass sledgehammer, so if big boy isn't there at the scheduled finale, everything will be quite according to the script.

Conway Picks Maloney to Win Tonight

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan 24 "I am picking Jim Maloney to win over Armand Emanuel at the Boston Garden tonight," said Jack Conway today. "I figure that Shamus is too strong and rough for the clever round house Emanuel has a boxing style which will bother the South Boston warrior, but I figure that Maloney will wind up with the decision."

Asked to pick the winner of the Primo Carnera-Big Boy Peterson scrap in New York tonight, Jack said he was stringing along with Carnera. "I saw Carnera in a gym workout in New York and he moves his feet pretty fast. And any bird as big as the Italian giant can punch. I would not be surprised if Primo clicked with a knockout."

Conway picked Strecher to defeat Malinowski, his record is still perfect. His record follows:

W.	L.	Pc.

"ANYHOW, here I am taking the breezes as they come in off Biscayne Bay. I just climbed out of the tub and feel as if I could step three rounds with some old, broken down guy who cannot punch or move around.

"There are windows on two sides of my room and they are wide open. Even as I sit here in my brand new S. V. D's, I am not entirely cooled off. It was 86 degrees here today and twice I had to in the sun. And I traveled all over town with the same outfit minus overcoat that I wore during the snowstorm in Boston last Tuesday. It seems that the cold who had my trunk took it for a joy ride, or something.

"Anyhow I just caught up with the trunk and my flannel trousers, sport shoes and such things. When I strike it a perfect day.

"When I got off the train here Jack Sharkey and his wife greeted us.

SHARKEY presented Johnny Buckley, his manager, with a toy telephone which gave the latter one complete freedom of the city. Johnny's great weakness in life is the desire to telephone. Sharkey realized what great suffering his pal endured in silence in the long trip from Boston.

Sharkey may be the greatest heavyweight in the world, but I shall always remember him as the bird who relieved me of one of my potential heirs. He displayed experience in carrying the youngster to a waiting auto.

"While a taxi driver took my baggage and trunks for a joy ride, Sharkey hurried us to his home here for breakfast. A checkup of the children on the premises revealed those belonging to the Sharkeys, four healthy Buckleys and three of my parting partners. Maybe the American heavyweight champion figures that the best way to keep young is by having a flock of kids around with him.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

MR. GAINOR'S son, J. Norman, was the shining light in last night's Bruin victory over the New York Americans. J. Norman scored the first goal on a length of the rink solo and passed for the deciding tally in the overtime period.

From the start, the Bruins acted as though they were tired. They were entitled to a lapse after the stellar performance they turned in against the Chicago Blackhawks.

As was predicted, Tiny Thompson and Roy Worters featured. When two such master goalies oppose each other, there are bound to be any number of sensational saves. Tiny had a slight edge on his opponent, for the close covering of the Americans' wings saved Worters from having to make as many close-in stops as came Tiny's way.

Manager Art Ross worked his three lines on a three minute schedule during the first period.

During the opening chapter, Harry Oliver pulled a "charlie horse" which was started in the Hawk's game and he retired for the evening. Oliver dressed after the second period and enjoyed the game from the stands.

Manager Lionel Conacher worked like a trojan to bring home a victory for his club. Conny was on his way to setting matters in the opening period, when he went down, knifed through Shore and Hitchman and was just setting himself for a close-in shot, when Dit Clapper bodied him out of the play. It was a timely check by Dit.

Rabbit McVeigh pulled the old fake shot on Capt. Hitchman in the first period and got away with it. But it availed him nothing as he lost the puck after circling the Bruins' defense man.

It must be discouraging to rifle shots at Roy Worters. The former Pittsburgh star appeared to have the sign on the Bruins until Dutch Gainor outfoxed Manager Conacher and Billy Burch to squirm his way right in on the net. Once Dutch was inside he took plenty of time juggling Worters around until he had an open net before he shot.

Cooney Weiland missed a bad injury when he placed his neck in the path of a back handed lift pass from Rabbit McVeigh. The puck slapped Cooney on the side of his neck but did not damage.

Tiny Thompson can see a player uncovered out of the corner of his eye. And how he does yell when he discovers an opponent loose and in a scoring position!

Just who is a better right winger than Dit Clapper?

There was not a single penalty dealt out until after eight and one-half minutes of the second period had been played.

For more than two minutes, in the middle chapter, Bill Carson, George Owen and Bill Hutton managed to keep the puck deep in the New York territory, and they did a terrible job on Roy Worters, who was lucky that they did not score a half dozen goals on him.

Marty Barry must have felt right at home playing with his former New Haven teammates, Bill Holmes, George Messerer and Roy Hurmeister.

The Bruins are off for Montreal and Les Canadiens tonight.

Watertown Wins on Ice

Watertown high defeated the Needham high sextet, 3 to 1, at Ballough's pond, Newton. Wesson and Romangill starred for the winners Nutand Gilman featured for the losers here.

TERRIERS BID FOR HONORS

Coach Freddy Burns of Boston University will enter a varsity and freshman relay team and a dozen performers in the open events at the K of C meet tomorrow night Burns is banking on his varsity mile quartet to come through against Fordham, and on Hank Bernhart to place in the N. E. A. A. U. 300, and Ken Chadwell to place in the 600.

The varsity baton team and the two individual performers are the most experienced men on the squad and the only ones who have showed their ability on previous occasions.

The Terrier freshman relay team will be pitted against M. I. T. and Boston College yearling teams, and such a stiff assignment does not bode very well for the B. U. cubs.

Hub Boys to Play Lawrence

The Boys' Club of Boston will meet the Lawrence Boys' Club in a game of basketball at the Eben D. Jordan Memorial Gymnasium, Charlestown, this Saturday.

The Club team was originally scheduled to play the quintet of the New Preparatory school, but due to a cancellation on the part of the latter because of lack of material the Lawrence team was secured in their place.

The change of opponents is one for the better, however, the Lawrence aggregation having been one of Boston's real rivals up to four years ago

The Lawrence team to date has played four games, winning three and losing one the defeat coming from the Manchester N. H. C. I. team which they later negated in a return game. Their starting lineup will consist of McKay and Stanwood, forwards; Rhodes, center; Lacardi and Christie, guards.

Cougars in Tie

Montreal, Jan. 24—The Detroit Cougars held the Montreal Maroons to a 2-2 tie in an overtime game here.

Malden High Beats Medford on Track

The Malden high track team swamped the Medford high aggregation, 62½ to 14½, at the Boston Y. M. C. A. track. This was the first time in a number of years that a Blue and Gold team was successful in trouncing its bitter rival.

Nation's Track Stars to Compete in K. of C. Meet

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

CUTBILL TO RUN LAST HOME RACE

A PARADE of track men, known all over the United States, started to arrive in Boston today for the William C. Prout Memorial games, held tomorrow night in Boston Garden.

So splendidly has the K. of C. committee done its job that it is difficult to pick the outstanding racer or event of the meeting. Boston fans are being privileged with the finest set of events which could possibly be put together.

The meet opens at 7:15 tomorrow night with the first heat of the N. E. A. A. U. 45-hurdles title race. From the opening gun until the final lap is run there won't be a quiet moment.

MANY VETS ENTER

The number of real track veterans entered is remarkable. Harold Cutbill, former B. A. A. racer; Jimmy Connolly of Woburn, Charley Bansone of the B. A. A. and others are in the list who were competing long before the present young runners heard on a shoe.

The Cutbill mile should be one of the great races of the season. Ray Conger, the Illinois A. C. mile champ, Bob Dalrymple of the B. A. A., Frank Lindsay of Maine, Gus Moore of Pittsburgh, Penn Halliwell of Harvard and Wallace Vites of Bates form a fine field Any man in the race can beat, four minutes and 20 seconds, and Conger has beaten it 11.

The Prout quarter memorial race has a wonderful field. Bernie McCafferty of Holy Cross, Pete Bowen of Pittsburgh and Norman St. Clair of Syracuse are three men who can beat 50 seconds consistently. The indoor record, held by Tom Halpin, is 49 3-5 seconds. So it is very possible that that mark of the old Unicorn runner will fall tomorrow night.

WELLS AFTER TITLE

Monty Wells goes after the New England crown in the three mile race Monty is teaching now in Connecticut at Roxbury school, but he keeps in great shape and can equal his record of 14-5 seconds.

Red Alonzan of Dartmouth, Raftery and Mac Donald of Holy Cross, Red Record, Frank Mahoulder and Dick O'Connell of Harvard and Dennis Carey of B. U. A. A. will make Monty step.

Jimmy Connolly, like Tennyson's brook, seems to run on forever. The Woburn flier is in the three-quarter mile race. He will run from scratch with Paul Kanaly, New England mile titlist, and Bill Cox, who was a cross country champ then running for Penn State.

Cox now represents the New York A. C. He recently ran a mile through a time trial in 3 minutes 16 seconds. That is not near the record, but it shows that the former Penn speedster has retained the speed which sent him in the top of the ladder in the cross country and middle distance competition.

Stan Petkiewicz, in the Leo Larrives Boston college team, gives the meet the international touch which tops off the program. Stan wants to show the Boston folks he's best running, for this meet is the only one in which the Polish flash will appear in the Hub this season.

Brockton Five to Play in West End

The West End House five will play the strong Brockton Y. M. C. A. at the local gymnasium on Blossom st., West End, tomorrow evening. Brockton will present the strongest team that they have had in years, composed mostly of former Brockton high school stars.

The starting lineup for the local quintet will be selected from the following men: Shapiro, Krivitsky, Neiman, Feld, Baker, Cubelowsky, Bird, Berman, Clayman and Navitsky.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

The accomplishment of speed in golf is opposed with the average player more by untrained muscles than by anything else. Next to that I would say untrained mental aspect. He can do equally well both in retarding his progress. Five hundred years ago some patient and finally enlightened old Scot wrinkled his trouble and gave expression to the thought that "dawf is a humblin' game." When you arrive at that conclusion in this more modern school you will have begun to realize the importance of speed and the uselessness of strength and power in this game. It is difficult to put the whole idea of golf speed into some one simple expression, but the one which best implies mental speed on the one hand combined with the element of clubhead speed on the other, and without the one the other is hardly possible. Still, the ones does not function apart from the other. Perhaps it does begin with speed of thinking, which would call on the player to see a swing correctly in his mind before trying to put it into his muscles. Most any average player can easily enough do that.

Bridgton Will Battle Huntington Today

ONE school track meet is on the card today, when Bridgton Academy comes to the "Y" gym to battle Huntington school. The home team is strong in both track and field events. Bridgton has a flock of local boys who will make the competition keen.

There are a bunch of fine basketball clashes on the school list today. Newton has a trip to Somerville for a Suburban League war. This is the first year that Somerville has had a regular team. The boys did not do well in their initial appearances, but showed their potential speed recently when they came very close to beating out the Everett quintet.

Lynn English and Lynn Classical fives clash today. Tom Whelan's English team has bit its stride now and is one of the best in the State.

Tony Geniawicz, great football player of the English team, does a great job on defense for English. He does not try to score often, but keeps the enemy forwards in check.

Chelsea at Salem is another great game for the school fives today. Chelsea has a good team, but the Wells City quintet is improving with every start, and expect to upset the visitors.

Lefty Isay Harriss of the South End is playing a splendid game for the Bridgton Academy five. Johnny Grinnell, of Boston, and Compy Compagnia and Bill Brasnal of Quincy also have starred for the Maine prep school quintet.

Rud Phelan of the Jamaica Plain hockey team ranks with the best of the school sextets. His work has ar on the runners.

The Signore brothers of Newton are not the only distance plodders who do well in school. 1000-yard races Sam Boosie of Roxbury Memorial is one of the most dependable of the schoolboys at the distance.

He runs with a very easy stride,

Tommy Hitchcock Is King of Poloists

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—Tommy Hitchcock, Jr., captain of the United States' international forces, still is the kingpin of American polo.

Revised handicaps announced by the United States Polo Association, left unchanged Hitchcock's rating of 10 goals, highest possible in the game. Ranked at nine goals again was Robert C. Gerry, former Yale star and member of the last American "Big Four." These two led all the rest.

Fields and Dundee Clash in Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 24 (AP)—Jackie Fields, ruler of the world's welterweight, tonight will renew his feud with the Dundee family of Baltimore in a ten-round bout with Vince Dundee at the Chicago Stadium.

It will be the second meeting between the pair in Chicago, and Fields, who gained a fairline decision over the brother of the former champion, is out to score a knockout. Fields will weigh about 147 pounds, the division limit, but Dundee probably will weigh around 155 at fight time.

Blue Hills Winter Carnival on Tonight

Almost 50,000 persons are expected to witness the second annual winter sports carnival which starts tonight at the Mt. Morits of the Blue Hills and continues through Sunday. The tournament, postponed twice on account of lack of snow and ice, will provide a real winter program of skiing, toboganing and skiing, in which nationally known contestants are entered.

The carnival will get underway tonight with a colorful street parade from Quincy Adams to the West Quincy St. Morits. Prominent in the procession will be Miss Dorothy Curry, of West Quincy, recently crowned "Queen of St. Morits."

New Haven Loses Hockey Victory

Providence, R. I., Jan. 24 (AP)—Forfeiture of a game postponed by the New Haven Eagles of the Canadian-American League by its victory over Springfield last Saturday was ordered by President James E. Dooley this morning following receipt of a formal protest of the game from Springfield.

New Haven was charged with playing two ineligible players, Leo Reise and George Patterson of the New York Americans of the National League and subsequently returning them to the Americans in violation of a 1-league rule which requires loaned players to stay with a Canadian-American League club not less than 21 days.

No report of the game was ordered at this time, President Dooley stating that if later developments show that a replay would be for the best of Springfield, he will order the game replayed.

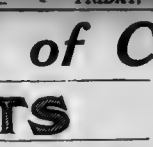
CUDDY TO MEET ITALIAN PURES

"Father Bill" Cuddy will leave for New York Sunday to meet the Italian team of amateur boxers which is to arrive on the Roma Monday morning and meet the leading amateurs of Germany and Uncle Sam in the international amateur tournament at the Garden one week from Monday night.

The invading team of Italians will be officially welcomed to this country by Grover Whalen, New York police commissioner, and Father Bill. They will come to Boston immediately, led by Severino Bruglotti, giant heavyweight, and will be met at the Back Bay station by a delegation of prominent local Italians.

FLATLEY SAYS



PRIMO (BIG FEET) CARNERA makes his American bow this p. m.—he fights Big Boy Peterson in New York and will have to bow down to reach the enemy, who is only six feet high—Primo has such large dogs that he is always in a neutral corner, and all other corners—no one knows whether the mastodon can fight, but he certainly sizes up.

The Big Boy is one of our leading horizontal batters — the breeze of a good swing is likely to make him point his toes up — he was a promising kid, but signed up as a Dempsey sparring partner—now he walks as much on his heels that rolling over is just as easy as breathing — Carnera's three managers admit that Big Boy can't hurt them, but if their potentate punches gets smacked he may fall down — and a few million dollar dreams will go down with him — the managers don't take all the punishment: the managers assimilate plenty—and it hurts even though they have it coming.

PHIL SCOTT is being taken up by society. Phil has the habit of being taken up; mostly by his seconds.

IT has just occurred to us that Jack Conway would be a multimillionaire, if he could pick stocks like he does ring results—that Florida is softening up Sharkey. He admits that Scot may linger four rounds—that all not Heinie Wagner would do a regular Dempseythese if he could get an audience of umpires—that betting on horses is the most palatial way of losing money that Brooklyn College should play Salem Trade next fall—that the up-to-date locker room may help the spirit of Harvard teams—that the head butts help and make the Crimson's next grid squad unbeatable—that this time next month the ball players will be at work (?) in Florida.

CLAUDE DAVIDSON, president of the loitering New England League, is right when he says that the rainouts should be minors. But he isn't original. The little chaps have been yelling that against the days of Ed Abner Doubleday.

The big fellows, who like their money, always have been deaf, but the present dearth of young players may make them change. There must be little leagues to dig up and develop the material, and the boys are sick of doing it for the glory. This would seem to be the time for them to hear down and cut themselves in.

Claude's point that the baby leagues should collect part of the purchase price of athletes who are sent up to the big minors and sold on to the large show, hits the nail on the head. But he will have a tough time making any of the plutocrats pay it.

But if he keeps trying, he may do something

IT ARTHA JOHNSON is still clever. He's leading a jazz orchestra in a N. Y. night club. It's a cinch he leads with his left.

GENE SARAZEN kissed his golf ball after he had sunk a $10,000 putt on the 16th green at Agua Caliente. He might have kissed it plenty before that, to get that golden 66.

ICE STARS TO COMPETE IN CARNIVAL

MISS BEATRIX LOUGHRAN of New York, a skater of international reputation who has had the honor of being North American champion during 1925, 1926 and 1927, is included among the international skaters who are coming to Boston on Feb. 12 to participate in the skating carnival that is being held at the Arena for the benefit of the Convalescent Home of the Children's Hospital which is located in Wellesley.

Miss Loughran is known for her artistic skating and is reproducing "The Veiling of the Sun," which has never been presented in Boston. "The Veiling of the Sun" is a fantasy composed by this well-known artist. The sun is portrayed by Miss Loughran who is costumed in a gold metallic costume, and the silver rays are skated by Mrs. Henry Wainwright Howe, Miss Ethel R. Bijur, Miss Anne Swanson and Mrs. Arthur L. Lawrence.

The fantasy includes a reverse spiral which unwinds a scarf which fully reveals the central dancer, and a lovely scarf and balloon dance follows. Boston is indeed fortunate to have an opportunity to see this spectacular and symbolical ballet ford to sidestep any of the present-day crop and for this reason, he accepted Emanuel

That Maloney has a fight upon his hands to take the measure of Emanuel tonight is shown by the fact that the South Boston man rules only a 10-9 favorite. As a general rule, Maloney is generally rated as a 2-1 favorite over all Hub opponents. But Emanuel's blasing left hand and his ability to step away from treacherous punches has so greatly impressed the fans that hundreds are backing him to beat Maloney in this Garden nugget.

Should this heavyweight bout will be one of the finest preliminary displays of the season with a three-round amateur between Joe Zelinsky of Binghampton, N. Y., and Victoria Livan, middleweight champion of Italy, as a contest that has aroused almost as much interest as the main event. It is reminded by close followers of the boxing game that this bout will end by the knockout route. Each boy is confident of winning and in a few rounds, to

In addition, there will be four six-rounders on the card as well as a four-round curtain raiser.

1930 WHIPPET NOW LOWEST PRICE SEDAN

Toledo, O., Jan. 24—Price cuts of $45 and $90 on all 1930 Whippet four-cylinder models were announced here by L. A. Miller, president of Willys-Overland Company.

This significant move by Willys-Overland makes Whippet the lowest priced of all four-door sedans built in America, and is particularly important in indicating the trend toward greater economy benefits to motor car purchasers in the low price range.

■ indicates the recognition by leading manufacturers of the fact that economy and thrift will be considered as never before by motor car purchasers this year, and gives a new importance to the four-cylinder car.

New Whippet prices are Sedan, $585; sedan de luxe, $645; coupe, two-passenger, $525; rumble seat, $555; roadster, two passenger, $475; roadster, rumble, $505; coach, $525, collegiate roadster, $545; touring, $475; commercial chassis, $360.

BRISK BUSINESS AT AUTO SHOW

As the 28th annual Boston Automobile Show swings into its last lap with two more days' exhibition of the 1930 models, distributors and dealers report excellent sales and a most unusual registration of prospects.

The exhibitors of pleasure cars, trucks and accessories are delighted with the enthusiasm and interest shown by the thousands of visitors to Mechanics Building.

Attendance remains up to the high mark that has marked each day since the show opened its doors.

A feature event was the third annual Old Timers' luncheon, arranged by General Manager Chester L. Campbell at the Copley Plaza. John H. MacAlman, president of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, Inc., was master of ceremonies.

President MacAlman is the dean of the group of nearly a score of distributors and dealers in attendance as the luncheon has now been identified with the automobile industry more than a score of years.

Kenneth A. Skinner, the first president of the association who was succeeded after a few years by MacAlman was also a guest.

Former Governor Alvan T. Fuller, who is also a veteran in the industry, took occasion at the luncheon to laud the efficient and undramatic manner in which President Hoover avoided a panic in the recent stock market upheaval.

Guests at the luncheon included Hon. Alvan T. Fuller, Frank H. MacAlman, C. E. Fay, Harry Fosdick, F. A. Hinchcliffe, Otto A. Lawson, Charles F. Madden, Harry Martin, Harry E. Marvel, W. A. Maynard, Kenneth A. Skinner, J. T. Sullivan, A. P. Underhill

Frank E. Wing, J. S. Kerrison Day Baker, George W. McNear J. J. O Lalor, F. M. Rollins, L. S. Saunders, George Crittenden, Elliot Wax, George W. Canterbury, H. C. Hart, Chester L. Campbell, Arthur G. Johnson, George Patten J. L. McKone, W. L. Stevens, T. Walker, P. W. Geer, P. A. Williams, Charles Gould, E. Roy Hiltz and John J. Judd.

DE SOTO 6 HAS COMPANION

"The De Soto Straight Eight, an entirely new and sensationally distinctive car, priced around $1000, is introduced for the first time at the Auto Show as a companion car to the phenomenally successful De Soto Six, which established a record for first-year sales," says R. C. Clarke, sales manager Richard, Clarke Co.

This Straight-Eight is described as the "mysterious Eight," which for the past few months has been paying tag around the mountain rear Lizonier, Pennsylvania, accompanied by other eight-cylinder cars of large type, yet outperforming them in every way. The identity of the "mysterious car" as the new De Soto Straight Eight, puts to rest the speculation which has been prevalent in the industry for many weeks past.

The present De Soto Six virtually unchanged will be continued in the line and, together with the Straight Eight, will be offered by De Soto dealers this year.

28 New Features Plymouth Models

"Twenty-eight improvements are contained in the car with which Plymouth enters the new year," says Frank Marr, district manager of the Plymouth Motor Co. "Among these improvements are features that are entirely exclusive cars in the Plymouth price class. The exceptional value that the present model represents is the result of the successful carrying out of the program of continuous improvement established for Chrysler Motors' low-priced quality car.

BUYING VOLUME PROMISES BIG AUTO YEAR

Excellent evidence of the added prosperity which seems to be in store for the country this year was revealed by J. C Chick, assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co.

As a result of the marked upswing in automobile buying across the country, winter production schedules of the Chevrolet Motor Co. are being increased 25 per cent over the high level set several weeks ago.

MR. Chick's statement was made at a banquet in the Statler Hotel, where Detroit Chevrolet officials, dealers, associated bankers and their star salesmen from the Boston and Portland zones were assembling the annual meeting program which was featured by an elaborate sales presentation in the Wilbur Theater.

More than 100 attended the day's sessions, which in addition to the sales presentation and banquet, included a meeting and installation of officers of the One Hundred Car Club. The club is a Chevrolet organization of salesmen who sold 100 or more Chevrolet cars last year.

GREAT YEAR SEEN

Enthusiasm over the 1930 automobile outlook, particularly as it pertains to Chevrolet, was voiced on every side, as a result of the marked buying activity and the volume of orders pouring into the central offices of the company in Detroit Chevrolet officials here declared that the company is anticipating an even greater year in 1930.

Assisting Chick in the direction of the Chevrolet activities here were H. L. Dorton, Harrytown, region manager; N. J. Walsh, Boston zone manager; W. J. Graveson, metropolitan sales director; F. J. Hackett, manager of the Portland zone, and the following officials from the central office in Detroit: Sidney Corbett, manager of the commercial car division; T O Mc Laughlin, E. E. Gray, Will Powe; C. G. Beutin and R. H. Fussel

The afternoon business show in the Wilbur Theater surpassed in magnitude and completeness the previous "shows" of former years.

As in other years, Chevrolet employees who have been identified with the company for a number of years, were given a special theater showing of the entire program.

Talks were illustrated in the form of playlets depicting, for the benefit of the salesmen, the proper method of operation of a retail automobile business.

H. L. Horton

SALE FROM STAGE

A carload of show equipment with a special show crew was brought on from Detroit to provide the setting for the performance.

Intelligent and careful management as a leading determinant of retail business success by dealers was stressed throughout the program. Perhaps the most interesting of the seven acts that made up the show was the sale of a car from the stage.

Because of the expanding commercial car market, the truck playlet proved of special interest. Accounting and business management found a prominent spot on the program as did the presentation of the new 1930 car with its many improvements.

The most elaborate act of all was reserved for the finale. It embraced a discussion of the responsibility for the sale of the Chevrolet quota for the year

AIRMEN TO GIVE ERVIN A BIG SENDOFF

By GEORGE RAMBLIN

The boys who started with the Curtiss Flying Service in New England, a year ago some of whom are not now on the payroll, will gather tonight at the B. A. A. to tender what might be called a testimonial dinner to R. G "Gil" Ervin former vice-president and general manager of the company in these six states.

Ervin took the New England territory when the Curtiss-Wright outfit first invaded this part of the country, and built up as fine an organization as we have ever seen.

But then came an order from New York, washing out the C-W. Flying Service of New England, Inc., and Gil resigned his position. The shakeup was felt all along the line, with expenses being cut down, and so far, two of the bases have met the dates for abandonment. These are Worcester and Springfield, the former closing March 1, and the latter the first of next month.

Manchester, N. H., was closed last November. The other stations in New England are responsible directly to the New York office.

So, Gil was out of a job, and we thought that it would be a good idea to give him a dinner and show him what the boys who worked with and for him, think of him. And the idea caught on immediately.

Several celebrities have been invited to grace the occasion, the identity of whom B. B Foote refused to divulge.

"There are seven hundred pilots, more or less, for every airplane in Florida, and there are a couple of hundred airplanes for every passenger."

Thus did Leonard Povey, pilot with the Massachusetts Airways Corp., of Springfield, sum up the flying situation in Florida.

Povey went down into the Sunny South early in December to fly for Pan-American Airways, but the proposed expansion proceedings contemplated by the company were deferred, and he found himself out of a job, and thirteen hundred miles from home.

George Barry, according to Povey, is ballyhooing for Curtiss down there, with a Ford tri-motor to work with, and passengers few and far between.

When Tom Cross heard all this, he smiled, and stated "I guess I'm making money by working this winter and leaving my ship in a hangar."

Gibraltar Tunnel Work to Continue

Madrid, Jan. 24 (AP)—The government today published a royal decree approving continuation this year of work of the Spanish official commission studying possibilities of a tunnel eight or ten miles long under the Straits of Gibraltar connecting Europe and Africa near the pillars of Hercules, western limits of the world known to the ancients.

Actual digging of the tunnel is as yet uncertain, the present work being merely to determine whether it is feasible

Dr. Block's Daily Health Hint

URTICARIA is another name for hives. It is also known as nettle rash. There is always itching and raised places. It may appear anywhere on the skin. Bathing with bicarbonate of soda gives relief, but it would be the better course to consult a physician.

ON January 24, 1850, Robert Hayne made his famous speech in Congress on the "Rights of Secession." In reply to Hayne, Daniel Webster made his "Union, One and Inseparable," speech. This was considered one of the latter's most remarkable patriotic addresses.

DAINTIEST MOST ESSENTIAL TO YOUR CHARM

Cleanliness Is the Secret, Says Beauty Expert

BY MARIA JERITZA

THE problem of daintiness confronts every woman engaged on the beauty quest. A true beauty of face and figure utterly loses its charm, when personal fastidiousness is lacking.

Cleanliness within and without may be defined as the secret of personal daintiness, but scrupulous daily attention to the condition of the hair, complexion, fingernails, teeth and every item of clothing from the skin.

Maria Jeritza

The daily bath, whether it be a tub, shower or merely a vigorous rubdown with soap and warm water, followed by a cold rinse in clean water, washes away the accumulation of perspiration and soil that collects on every healthy body.

Wear undergarments that launder easily, then see to it that you have a complete change of fresh clothing each day, including lingerie, handkerchiefs and stockings. The silk stockings, handkerchiefs and frail silk or rayon undergarments in universal feminine use today, can be washed out in a few moments at night and only handkerchiefs are likely to need ironing.

Look over your costume for the next day at night, making sure there is not a run in the stockings and attending to any needed mending or pressing. All you do toward the daintiness of your wardrobe at night will save you valuable moments next morning, when you wish to dress in a hurry to get to the office or prepare breakfast for the family.

But there is another item of personal daintiness too important to be overlooked, although it is not altogether pleasant to discuss. Many a woman is offensive through the odor of perspiration that would seem a dream of purposely violating the rules of daintiness. It is possible to buy preparations that check perspiration locally, and some women seem to use them without harm to themselves. Others find that the bodily poisons thus confined cause boils or skin eruptions. Really harmless deodorants are available at reasonable price, however. Always use a deodorant of them is the least question of whether bodily odors are present.

Bad breath is an offense against fastidiousness, usually caused by imperfect bodily alimination. Drink six glasses of water daily, get outdoor exercise, include fresh fruit and fresh vegetables in your diet and substitute rye or bran for white bread, then you should not be troubled with constipation, that arch enemy of fragrant breath and the complexion beautiful.

Even though you live quite alone, you owe it to yourself to be an agreeable companion. But the deb' you owe to others is to be at all times well-groomed, a pleasant picture to look at and also to be absolutely free from every suggestion of bodily odor, which is the death knell of charm.

Norrie Arrived to Mind the Baby

"Norrie," he said, "you look mighty cozy and comfortable there. I'd a lot rather sit at home with you tonight than go where I'm going."

Little Pitchers Have Big Ears

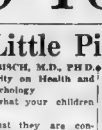
By LOUIS E. BISCH, M.D., PH.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

BE careful what your children hear.

Remember that they are constantly on the alert, eager to pick up and information they possibly can.

Curiosity prompts them to do that and it is through the satisfying of their curiosity instinct that they learn and progress.

But surely the little ones cannot mentally digest all they hear. We do not want them to overhear what may be harmful.



Dr. L. E. Bisch

To call attention to the dangers of exposing children to conversation not fit for immature minds ought really not be necessary.

Nevertheless, although we adults know full well that the little folks "pick up" all sorts of talk, altogether too often we are careless about what we say and discuss in their presence.

Children are like foreigners in one respect. Invariably will "cuss" words and slang stick in their minds when they begin to learn the language.

Judgment, reasoning, logic and a sense of comparison and discrimination are faculties which develop late as the growing mind unfolds.

Therefore the young mind takes in everything whole, is unable to separate the good from the bad, the valuable from the worthless.

When a child hears profanity it is engraved on its plastic brain just as deeply as when it hears the golden rule.

Children do not discriminate. They are unable to. They could not if they wanted to.

In consequence we must be ever watchful as to the kind and quality of the thoughts that emanate from us and that go into the making of their thoughts.

Whatever enters their minds and is built into the machinery of their brain cells is of the utmost importance because it helps to build character and personality.

If they hear destructive and negative ideas they will soon manufacture destructive and negative ideas themselves.

Let them hear constructive and positive things from your own lips whenever the opportunity presents itself.

The earlier we begin with the mental upbuilding process the better. Contrariwise, the earlier they hear vulgarity the worse the ultimate effects will be.

Not only should adults be careful what they discuss in the presence of children, but adults should also have a watchful eye over the companions with whom their own children associate.

Lots of vulgarity is learned at play—that in play with children who have learned to be rude, crude and vulgar from other children or from adults at home or elsewhere.

Many bad habits of a sex nature may also be learned in this way. Children are not as innocent as our fond fancies picture them.

But do not blame the children. Nor punish them.

Remember they are quite unable to evaluate their own thinking. Until the older years it is all one to them, no matter what it is.

If your child has taken on destructive ideas from overhearing what he is too young to hear, talk the matter over quietly and understandingly and so get rid of the pernicious thinking.

They can readily be made either moral or immoral.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE are few things harder to bear than Being Misunderstood. You know how it is . . . Life has put you up against some problem. Usually you can run away from your problems . . . or compromise . . . or manage to get pretty somehow But this time you feel you can't run away and keep your self-respect. You MUST face it . . . you MUST make a stand. You've been a weak coward long enough.

Elsie Robinson

You realize . . . how dismally well you realize . . . that the consequences of taking a stand won't be very jolly. A lot of people will probably get mad at you, or disgusted with you. People like to talk about courage or read about it, but they don't give it much of a hand. It is a lone row you stand THEM. And that's natural. Human beings are still savages, and they resist the swing away from custom and convention. They dread anything that upsets their accustomed ruts or forces them to think their own laziness and timidity. And someone else's courage is apt to do just that. So naturally they get peeved at neighbors who act "dif'rent."

So you know, mighty well, that if you act different you're in for a heap of grief. But things CAN'T go on as they've been going . . . you MUST do something . . .

So you do the thing you think is right. And . . . BAM! . . . everyone begins to knock and sneer—

Well, you expected it. You told yourself it would happen. But how it hurts! And how unfair it seems. If I'd only tried to understand . . . If they had been loyal and patient, even if they couldn't understand. But they've condemned you, without giving you a chance to explain—

You find yourself growing bitter.

DON'T!

Stand off and get a broader perspective of the situation. Suppose you'd been picked out to do some extraordinary brave feat . . . like following Byrd to the Pole or leading some great crusade. You'd know, before hand, that you would have to endure loneliness and danger and discomfort . . . but when these conditions came you wouldn't be bitter about them, would you? No, you would feel honored because you had been elected to take this risk . . . and you'd feel that the adventure, itself, justified the risk.

FEEL THAT WAY ABOUT THIS BRAVE THING YOU HAVE DONE! FOR IT, TOO, WAS WORTH THE PRICE YOU'VE GOT TO PAY.

It is a great thing to journey into uncharted parts of the earth, but it is an infinitely nobler and braver thing to journey into the uncharted land of the spirit. Every time you . . . forget . . . in the midst of journey . . . and exacts its certain penalty of sneers from those whose mentality is disturbed. BUT THE JOURNEY IS WORTH IT! For he who elects to travel the soul's hard trail, but only keeps faith with himself but blazes a path for those who follow after.

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

he said, handing it to her the minute he came into the little house. "I sold the oil stock."

He did not stop to kiss her as he always did when he came into the house at night.

He left her standing, with the check in her hand, and went on his way to the sunroom to have a look at the baby.

"Hello, Buster." Lovejoy heard him say. "How's the boy been all day?" The door of the room closed after him.

Until the last two nights she and Tom had always gone into the room together to say good night to the baby. It had been the happiest moment of the day. The high point.

"Oh, well, if he wants to shut me out of things, let him," she said to herself unhappily. "I'm not going to care."

But she did care. And the worst of it was that she didn't know whether he was angry about the telephone call or about the money that he had just put into her hand.

On Saturday night at 7 Aline telephoned to the house.

"We're going to have a poker party," she told Lovejoy in her high, sweet voice, "and we'd like you and your nice husband to come over if you can make it. Won't your aunt come over and stay with your baby just this one time?"

Lovejoy said she'd ask her.

"Tom!" she called, turning away from the telephone "Would you like to go over to the Aldersons' and play poker? They are having some people in."

"I would like to—but I suppose I've got to!" was Tom's answer from the kitchen where he was putting a new washer on the hot water faucet in the sink.

Lovejoy telephone Aunt Em. "I can't come over. I'm just going out to the picture show with your uncle," said Aunt Em. "But wait a minute and I'll ask Norrie Shane if she'll come. She's right here."

There was a silence, and then Norrie's soft voice came over the wire.

"I'll be glad to come and sit with the baby if you want me to," it said. "I haven't a thing to do tonight."

"Norrie, you're a dear," Lovejoy cried. "Bring along your over-night bag and I'll fix up our spare room for you. I'm afraid we aren't going to be home very early, so you may as well plan to spend the night here."

Lovejoy was happier than she had been in days when she rung up the receiver and flew into the bedroom to dress.

She sang as she took her one and only evening dress out of the tiny clothes closet and hung Tom's dinner coat over the foot of his bed.

This was something like living at last! This was what Saturday night was for! To get dressed for a party. To close the door of the house after you and forget it in a few hours of play and pleasure!

"Don't be so glum!" she said to Tom when he came in to dress. "We're going to a party—not to a funeral, darling"

Here eyes went over him as he took off his coat and his shirt. How broad his shoulders were, and how slender his waist and hips!

He was standing before his chiffonier and his blue eyes met hers in the glass.

"I was just thinking how good looking you are," she said to him. "No woman would ever be unfaith ful to a man like you, Tom."

He shot a puzzled look at her. But Lovejoy did not see it.

She was slipping her ivory silk dress over her bright head. It was a year old, but it looked as good as new. There were tiny ivory beads around the V-neck and another band of them around the skirt.

"I haven't lost my looks yet, any way," she told herself with a warm feeling of comfort as she powdered her face and rubbed the perfume Aline had given her into the soft nape of her neck.

She felt as rare and beautiful as a white peacock beside a brown English sparrow when she went to get Norrie Shane in the house fifteen minutes later . . . Norrie with her plain drab clothes and her brown hair drawn into that plain flat knob at the back of her head

"If you have any trouble at all to give it to me," she said when she had settled herself under the lamp in the little living-room.

An when Tom came out of his bedroom she was busily filling up a great hole in the toe of his favorite pair of socks

He stood with his hands in his pockets, looking down at her. He had always like Norrie Shane.

Norrie he said, "you look mighty cozy and comfortable sitting there. I'd a lot rather sit at home with you tonight than go where I'm going."

From where he sat, on a low chair beside the wood fire, Lovejoy saw Norrie's face redden as she bent it low over her work

"Why, the poor old kid is in love with Tom," she said to herself with a sense of shock.

"Well, let it be" . . . It would probably do Norrie Shane good to have a little love-interest in her life.

And the Queen of Sheba herself couldn't vamp Tom away from me, she thought.

Afterward she remembered how sure she had been of him

'Love Them and Leave Them'

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"LOVE them and leave them!"

That is the motto of the girl whose letter lies on my desk this morning. Or rather, it was her motto. But just one year ago, when she was a little more than 19, and received the letter which gave her a slightly different idea of love

As she herself explains in her letter: "I used to be pals with a girl the same age as myself, only she's a blond and I'm a brunette. We always said we would go with all the boys, love them and leave them without a thought and we always done that very thing, not taking anyone seriously. I stood by my pal and she stood by me until one year and four months ago."

But if I am not careful I shall be making the interesting reader letter, and my correspondent has expressly requested me not to do so this time. "I was very much in love four months ago," "Worried" fell in love with a young man, and this upset all her calculations about loving and leaving them. For she did not want to leave this young man, or even to be left by him, though I am not sure she did not hurt him badly

At any rate, they were great friends for a long time—until two months ago. She met his parents and liked them, and they were sweet to her. Her parents were "foolish about him."

But one relative didn't like Worried, and wished, it seems, to "bust up" the friendship. So she began gossiping to Worried about her sweetheart. He had warned his sweetheart not to believe anything this relative might say about him as she was a trouble-maker Nevertheless, Worried listened and became highly incensed at the reports although she does not state what they were

Did she take a little time to think the matter over—possibly sleep on it? Did she write a friendly, sane letter, expressing all her temper and indignation, then lock it away for 24 hours and read it over before mailing it? Did she send for her sweetheart and ask him to explain the gossip and stand up for himself? No, she did none of these things. If she did, she might still be a happy girl, contentedly in love. Instead, she wrote him a farewell letter, telling him she never wished to see him again, and asking him to return her letter if he still loved her. Her letter was promptly returned and the incident was seemingly closed

Soon, Worried began to live up to the pen-name with which she signs her letter. She became worried, indeed. Anger gave place to real second thought The love she thought entirely dead, returned to her heart, warm and glowing as ever. Not hearing from her sweetheart, she sent him a letter of apology.

To tell the truth, he won't accept it" exclaims Worried in amazement. "So far as going to him again is concerned, I won't do it. I've gone 50-50, if I must blame."

Worried wants to know how to bring her sweetheart back, for she loves him. But she doesn't want to go to him

You have put a very difficult problem up to me, Worried. I am glad that you wrote me, since you have had a nervous breakdown worrying over your love problem. But I doubt whether you can do a thing about bringing back your lover, even though you might go to him again and kneel at his hand with him to return.

I agree with you that would be folly. It is sportsmanship to apologize once, sweetly and honestly But to keep apologizing and begging for a reconciliation is undignified and useless The next step should come from him.

Pull yourself together—carry on! When you see your former sweetheart treat him as sweet as though nothing had happened Go about with other friends, of course, but not among those who have told you if ever he makes the first move toward renewal of the friendship. Be friendly, and at the same time as it often happens, the most wonderful thing a woman can do is send a sweetheart away from her forever, unless she is positive, after careful thought, that she wishes to lose him, once and for all. An intact undeserved insult of this kind may well kill love

Possibly you realize now how others may have felt—those boys whom you cast your chains so blithely "left broken-hearted." That sort of treatment was bound to come to you, if you'd only see it one day by the law of the boomerang. I hope this rift in your friendship may not be mended. All you can do is hold yourself ready to begin again on good fellowship. Be staid and seek your companionship. Meantime won't you try to take a good vacation trip. Meet new friends, see new scenes.

But if you hope for happy romance may I suggest that you drop forever the policy of "Love them and leave them" as a slogan of friendship and love, and also refuse hereafter to listen to silly, unproved gossip about your friends.

Giving Away the Bride

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am about to be married. My parents are dead and I have been living with a married sister for about five years. Now that I am to be married should have my brother-in-law (who has acted as a father in this time) give me away? I have brothers but I do not see them very often.

Watertown GERTRUDE G.

UNDER these circumstances, since your brother-in-law has been so especially kind and "fatherly" to you, and since you do not see much of your brothers, I think that it would be especially gracious and appreciate of you to invite your brother-in-law (in-law seems a very cold word in this case, doesn't it?) to give you in marriage. Surely he has in large measure deserved this honor.

Writer, Auburndale—Your determination is the best thing about you. You should stick to your decision because you are right.

Virginia, Arlington—There is no need of writing him a note about the bridge. You have already thanked him. Be sure, however, to show your appreciation by being very attentive and thoughtful.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When lettuce salad is served, is it correct to cut it with a knife? Dedham. MISS C. G.

Yes, it is correct to use both the knife and fork when we are eating salad. In fact, now several manufacturers of silverware have put excellent salad knives on the market. And for this I am most happy.

It has always seemed to me the most ridiculous thing to see people struggling with a difficult salad, such as our ever-popular hearts of lettuce or romaine, or endive, or a salad with slices of pineapple or other difficult-to-manage ingredients, when it would be so easy and simple to use a knife as an aid to the fork, either a salad fork or the customary medium size or smaller fork

Why not use a knife as well as a fork when we are eating salad? Perhaps if we considered the question from this point of view, we would not, as a nation, shy away from using the knife as an accompaniment to the fork when we are eating a salad.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Should the sherbet be eaten before or after the meat?

2. Is it correct, when dining, to cut the meat, lay down the knife and change the fork to the right hand and pick up the food, or should one use the fork in the right hand only for salads?

Back Bay. T. B.

1. THIS depends on its appropriateness to the course.

2 This is just as one chooses. And there is almost no room for a difference of controversy on this subject. Usually well-bred foreigners eat in what is called the non-fork lifting method of eating. That is, they cut off a piece of meat, say, with the knife in the right hand and the fork in the left, and convey the piece of meat to the mouth with the fork in the right hand.

Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.

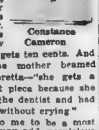
Don't Bribe a Child to Be Good

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

WE were discussing allowances for children. "I don't give Loretta money each week as an allowance," explained the mother, with a glance at the child. "She only gets money when she earns it by being good."

"Why if she goes to bed without whining every night for a week, she gets a quarter. Or, if she drinks her milk nicely each meal, she gets ten cents. And this week"—the mother beamed lovingly at Loretta—"she gets a whole fifty-cent piece because she went down to the dentist and had a tooth pulled without crying"



Constance Cameron

This seems to me to be a most unique and, I may add, pernicious system. Poor little Loretta.

She's going to go out into the world—first to school, then into business life, probably—expecting to be paid for doing what any intelligent person does as a matter of course.

Money has a distinct value and purpose in a child's life, but it seems to be a queer use of it which buys ordinarily good conduct or buys an amiable taking-ing of food which should be done, first of all, because the child is healthy and hungry, or, if with any conscious thought at all, with the knowledge that it will build a strong, efficient body.

Give your child an allowance each week whether he is good or bad. Do not let conduct enter into the allowance question at all. Then the moment you seek to impart by allocating a child a stated sum weekly is the use of money, not how to conduct himself. Conduct must be approached from another standpoint entirely. Conduct can only be regulated in just the degree you regulate and cultivate your child's knowledge that it is only intelligent and reasonable to conform to certain social laws, certain consideration for others.

You may buy outward good conduct for a time, but your structure is built upon sand in such a case and sooner or later in a crisis, when there is no monetary reward in sight, nothing but the satisfaction of having done what is right, your child will fail you, your house will crumble before your eyes

Never pay a child for doing what is right, except in praise and appreciation. Never pay him for doing little tasks in the home which should rightly to be his responsibility. Certain things are expected of us all through life, and we must look for payment, except in satisfaction that we've done our best, or in an encouraging, kindly word from a companion.

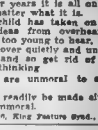
The Real Truth

ABOUT FASHIONABLE PEOPLE

By ELINOR GLYNN

GO into the hall of any fashionable hotel in any large city, and no matter how inexperienced you may be, somehow you can sense the people of the highest social class who may be there.



Elinor Glyn.

You don't perhaps know why, in detail—but something tells you they look at each other with pride and different from the others.

Then if you begin to analyze you will find they are more quietly dressed, however rich their furs may be, and that they are not making much noise.

Also that the people who are talking to them are paying them respect, or at least are not so free and breezy in their manner.

Then look at another group of the newly rich who have no background, no traditions of manners. You can tell them at once though they are probably marvelously well dressed; there is just a something in behavior and in their faces which lets you know they are not of the really rich.

Now do analyze, when you get this impression about strangers, why it is you get it.

Try to discover just what it is they do, say, or look, which stamps them, so then you can avoid doing, saying, or looking, in the same way.

Everything is in observation. Observe people, and find out what to avoid and what to acquire. If you are sensible girls and want to make yourselves perfection.

Good taste must manifest itself in all you do unconsciously.

There should at length be no effort. It should be second nature

CONFIDENCE IN STOCK MARKET COMING BACK

Public confidence in the stock market is coming back, even if slowly. A number of bullish pools this week have been working with the best success since the break.

we are told. In Boston brokerage offices we are informed there is a considerable accumulation of buying orders, well distributed over a broad list, for long pull holding at current levels. The public has not yet arrived again at the old "buy at the market" stage, but is proceeding cautiously. The "over-the-counter" market in Boston has picked up considerably. Word from many good New England issues being distributed to investors in this fashion.

E. Scott Dennett, who has just been elected president of the San Francisco Curb Exchange, began his brokerage career as an office boy in Boston. He went to Calumet, Mich., as office manager for a Boston Stock Exchange house and in 1900 was elected a member of the Boston Stock Exchange. In 1906 he went to the New York Curb as assistant manager, being in the days when the Curb Exchange was operated on Broad Street and the system of trading was deals by hand from the Curb to windows in adjacent buildings was in its infancy. As a development Dennett later acted as specialist on the New York Curb market, coming to the San Francisco 12 years ago. Since that time he has been connected with leading stock exchange firms there.

He was a member of the floor trading committee of the San Francisco Stock Exchange when odd lot trading was established, was one of a committee of three appointed to draft the constitution and by-laws for the San Francisco Curb Exchange and has been elected a member of the governing board of the San Francisco Stock Exchange. Twenty-four brokers who were fellow members with Mr. Dennett on the Curb Stock Exchange are still holding their seats.

The principal effect of the recent lease of L. C. Principal holdings of Delaware & Hudson Co. after segregation, will consist of more than $60,000,000 cash and readily available securities and all outstanding stock of Delaware & Hudson Railroad Corp.

Rebuilding of Prosperity Is Already Here

Roll Call of Developments Showing Progress Is Now Under Way

By B. C. FORBES—

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—This roll-call, confined strictly to facts indicates encouragingly that the country is already over its fright and progressing towards normalcy.

B. C. Forbes

Employment is on the increase, official figures furnished by President Hoover clearly demonstrate.

Steel production has been stepped up quite briskly since last month.

Automobile output is being expanded with unexpected vigor.

Railway traffic is now only slightly under the high mark of a year ago.

Price-cutting has been extraordinarily rare, with the consequence that the general level of commodities has moved recently shown remarkable steadiness.

Wage rates, broadly speaking, have not been lowered.

Retail trade, "while naturally affected by weather conditions is different, generally speaking, as somewhat better than had been anticipated.

That confidence and courage have revived in high circles is revealed by the resumption of various important mergers and deals.

New security offerings are reappearing — including investment trust issues.

The stock market is showing increasing resistance to raids by bears, reflecting that necessitous selling is over. Lately there have been growing signs that very little stock is for sale around current levels and that it takes only moderate buying to start prices rising.

Brokers' loans and other loans have been drastically reduced, placing the nation's stock of reserves on a more comfortable basis.

Call money in Wall Street this week has been available unofficially at as low as 3½ per cent, while time facilities are the cheapest in years.

Gold exports have ceased and several important countries (non-European non-European) countries have been arranged.

Official figures supplied this writer by presidents of many corporations, bring out that there has been a very notable increase in the number of investors owning shares in industrial and public utility corporations.

Latest events stimulate hopes that a re-stabilized Eastern railway consolidations, after interminable delay, are at last making real progress towards completion.

The Washington administration attitude towards business is cordially co-operative.

The Federal Reserve Board's policy elicits the approval of the financial world.

Apprehension that the panic in stocks would kill national prosperity and that nothing but hard times could be expected throughout 1930 has already greatly subsided. It has disappeared entirely in most circles.

The prevailing sentiment in the financial world, in the industrial world, in business generally, is one of rational hopefulness, optimism, even confidence that the turn for the 1929-1930 era of liquidation is in its incipient stages and that improvement will become more pronounced Spring.

In short, the nation has not lost its head, but is resolutely looking for and towards the speedy return of normality favorable conditions.

Our economic structure is firmly based. What was its one notorious weakness, unduly inflation, has been effectively eradicated. The rebuilding of prosperity promises to go forward from now on.

CURB MARKET PRICES MOVE ON UPSIDE

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—A more confident tone was apparent in the curb market trading today and prices in all groups tended upward, although most of the advances were of minor proportions.

Utilities were moderately active. American Gas & Electric rose nearly 5 points, while Electric Bond & Share, Associated Gas & Electric A, American Superpower and a few others continued their improvement to fractions. United Light & Power A rallied nearly a full point.

The investment trust group sought higher ground. Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation's report that the net worth of the shares was $40.84 brought out only small rally in the shares, which touched 37. Lehman picked up a point and Transamerica crossed 44 for an overnight advance of 2 points. Blue Ridge common eased.

Fox Theaters improved more than 1 point and Otis Elevator made an advance of about the same size. The oils were dull, with small fractional gains in Humble, Cities Service and Standard of Indiana. Cosden rose nearly 1.

The proposed Baltimore & Ohio 4½ per cent collateral trust bonds, traded when issued, sold at 102½ against the announced offering price to stockholders of 95.

WEATHER POOR AID TO TRADE, SAYS DUN'S

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review in this week's issue will say regarding trade conditions in Boston—Weather conditions have not favored an expansion of retail trade, though current mark down sales have brought good results. Manufacturers and wholesalers report business rather quiet though, in some lines, activity is increasing.

Shoe manufacturers are receiving fairly good orders and are increasing production. Leather sales are expanding, but current purchases are generally made at a price slightly below former quotations.

The hide and skins market is slow but steady. Cotton consumption in the New England States amounted to 83,245 bales, as compared with 97,390 bales the previous month.

Business in the primary markets is increasing. Print cloths are active, and there is more call for fine goods. Prices are firm. There is a moderate demand for coarse and medium counts of weaving yarns but most grades are slow. Prices are weak.

The wool market has been slow during the week, with prices slightly lower, on account of the weakening in the foreign market. Carpet wools are more active, with quotations increasing. Some fairsized orders are being received for worsted knitting yarns. The goods market appears in good shape, and the manufacturing outlook is favorable.

Sales of pig iron this week have been about 3000 tons, with some good-sized orders in sight. Building and engineering contracts started during the week amounted to $4,320,000, as compared with $5,916,800 the corresponding week of last year.

Lumber is quiet, with a slight upward tendency. Other building materials also are slow. Construction costs are about the same as last year, except frame buildings, which have increased about 1 per cent. Retail and wholesale coal trade is fairly good, with many instances this may be due to the fact that operations were suspended over the holidays.

"Sole leather prices are holding fairly firm, with the market showing a little more activity. The shoe style shows appear to have stimulated leather buying somewhat. Upper leathers are also firm and show a slightly more expanding tendency. Patent leather has moved pretty lately. Shoe manufacturers are gradually increasing production schedules to conform with orders received as a result of the recent style shows. Locally, retail footwear trade has been quiet.

"Dry goods jobbers report business of satisfactory volume. Men's clothing jobbers and manufacturers are busy with spring lines, as also suit and cloak manufacturers and jobbers. Fur jobbers report business quiet. Department store sales are equal to and in some instances exceed those for same period a year ago. Specialty shops report business as fair to good. Volume of the wholesale grocery trade for January to date is 10 per cent in advance of same period last year. The wholesale drug trade shows no improvement over last year."

BOSTON TRADE IMPROVES

Spotty improvement in trade conditions in this section is indicated in Standard's weekly report, which said: "The wool market is very dull and trading is limited. Values seem to be tending lower, although in many instances this may be due to the fact that operations were suspended over the holidays.

"Sole leather prices are holding fairly firm, with the market showing a little more activity. The shoe style shows appear to have stimulated leather buying somewhat. Upper leather prices are firm and show a slightly more expanding tendency. Patent leather has moved pretty lately. Shoe manufacturers are gradually increasing production schedules to conform with orders received as a result of the recent style shows. Locally, retail footwear trade has been quiet.

Fur jobbers report business quiet. Department store sales are equal to and in some instances exceed those for same period a year ago. Specialty shops report business as fair to good. Volume of the wholesale grocery trade for January to date is 10 per cent in advance of same period last year. The wholesale drug trade shows no improvement over last year."

CONVERTIBLES IGNORE RISE IN STOCKS

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—Bonds showed familiar activity today and prices of most issues in the higher grades were virtually stationary. Early transactions brought out a few of the wide fluctuations characteristic of a thin market, but for the most part the entire list appeared fairly well stabilized at recent levels. Time money was firm.

Despite the rise in the stock market, convertibles were stagnant although higher quotations called Missouri Pacific 5½s and American Telephone 4½s rose slightly less than a point.

Noticeable changes in the rails included a 4½-point rise in Illinois Central 3½s on the sale of a small block. Delaware & Hudson 4s lost about a point in inconsequential dealings. The more active issues, including Rock Island 4s and St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s, made minute fluctuations.

Low priced industrials again made an upward move today. Writing 6s rose 4 points and Murray Body 6½s added nearly two points to their recovery advance. Utilities were exceptionally quiet.

Foreign bonds held firm on light inquiry. There was some activity in Belgian and German agricultural bank issues, but price movements were unimportant.

United States governments were dull. Most of the early trading was in the Fourth Liberties, which advanced slightly.

Rights for the large long-term convertible offering planned by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which will total $63,051,000, were traded at about 1¾. The bonds are to be offered to stockholders at 95 and will bear 4½ per cent coupons.

Department Stores

Ours Made a Fine Showing Last Year, Will Do Better in 1930

WE take from a recent number of "Retailing," a trade newspaper, the table printed herewith showing how the department stores of the United States prospered last year in comparison with their volume of sales in 1927.

Two features of this report should be particularly encouraging to New England.

It will be observed, first, that the BOSTON Federal Reserve District was second in percentage of stores reporting increases. In this respect we were topped only by San Francisco.

In a comparison of 1928 and 1927, again, the increase reported by the department stores of this region—3.27 per cent—was excelled by only San Francisco and Dallas.

The total number of stores reporting from the 12 Federal Reserve Districts was 246. Fifty-eight per cent of these reported sales increases. In the table which follows 100 per cent represents the volume of sales for the previous year:

Federal Reserve District.	1929 compared with 1928 per cent.	1928 compared with 1927 per cent.	Per cent of stores reporting increases.
1—Boston	102.93	98.50	69
2—New York	100.73	103.77	85
3—Philadelphia	103.06	100.42	62
4—Cleveland	101.73	102.08	54
5—Richmond	102.99	102.71	66
6—Atlanta	99.39	105.56	38
7—Chicago	100.75	109.41	81
8—St. Louis	99.92	102.27	43
9—Minneapolis	103.27	96.17	55
10—Kansas City	103.40	103.81	59
11—Dallas	104.94	101.95	40
12—San Francisco	106.84	101.62	76

If we read and interpret these figures correctly what they say is that New England's share of last year's general prosperity was most generous.

How about 1930?

So far as the department stores are concerned, they should do MUCH better than last year. We are told by men who are inclined to be more conservative than rash or over-confident that the Tercentenary will attract 10,000,000 visitors; and we do not believe it possible for the intelligent tourist to visit Boston and NOT to be attracted to such retail stores as, taken as a whole, have no superiors in the U. S. A.

What! No Spinach?

A Doctor Says So

(Copyright, 1930)

DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN, noted medical editor, comes to the defense of the small boy who won't eat spinach. Merely because it contains one vitamin, he says, is no particular reason why it should be forced down unwilling throats, juvenile or adult.

Dr. Fishbein's iconoclastic utterance will upset many pet household theories. It is the first time that a recognized authority has stripped away some of the "bunk" that surrounds American diet.

No people in the world but ourselves make such an unhappy business of eating. Meals are served with a heavy garnish of scientific misinformation—so many calories of this, so many vitamins of that—solemnly swallowed, seldom digested.

It is time common sense entered the kitchen. Eating was not meant to be penance. Properly practiced, it is the king of indoor sports.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—That New Yorkers may live in the cerebral house of glass is a possibility and that many business buildings will be constructed of the same material is approaching reality. Remarkable progress has been made in experimenting with glass bricks.

Such bricks permit light but distort vision from the outside. Already a half-dozen building fronts on Fifth ave. are almost entirely of glass—both clear and opaque—up to second and third floors. Their delightful clarity is the chief feature.

Over in London glass structures are in the making to counteract perpetual fogs. A perfume shop in the rue St. Honore, a few steps from the rue Cambon in Paris, has a three-storied front entirely of clear glass—save for the metal beams.

A French perfume importer is negotiating for a four-story glass building in the East 20's. This has gone far enough to have the actual contract awarded and the delay is due to the fact the municipal engineers have not as yet granted a building permit.

A millionaire in Brussels has a glass chateau and a Berlin hotel shortly to open with an entire glass lobby. All over Europe glass roofs grow in favor. A wealthy Long Island man has an enormous glass kennel of glass and sets it goes.

Those who know are unwilling to admit the present type of skyscraper can be fashioned of glass but they are entirely convinced that smaller buildings and apartment houses of not more than four stories are feasible. The overwhelming argument is its light and cleanliness.

The only manufacturing plant of glass so far is in Long Island City where mosaics are turned out. A new hotel is to have all glass bathrooms and sidewalks of glass are being agitated for an entire block on West 57th st. Thus does the Glass Age dawn.

A correspondent in a little Ohio town writes that for the first time in history the town is without a blacksmith. And running to the phone book in a flurry of curiosity a perusal shows that 57 horseshoers are open for business in New York.

Statistics show the candle business has increased more than 50 per cent in New York in the past two years. Most of the business comes from tea rooms which use candles for table decorations. There are 12 shops dealing exclusively in candles.

The first manicure parlor in New York was opened in the late 70's. For five years it was the only one in town. Today there are more than 20,000 places where one may have such attention.

One of the first men to have his nails "done" in New York was the elder J. P. Morgan. He used to send for a manicurist to come to his house once a month. It is not unusual today, however, for men to visit the manicure parlor three times a week. And a new one is to have 20 Chinese girls billed as "the cute clippers."

The Rialto will miss Winthrop Ames who so quietly withdrew from theatrical producing "to travel and write a book." Suddenly he stopped his activities for the season by returning two plays—one by Robert Sherwood and another by a Frenchman—he had planned to sponsor. He then dismissed his entire staff. Ames is a Bostonian with the rapt air of a pilgrim and in building the Little Theater fathered "the little theater movement" in America. A melancholy, artistic gentleman with an inherited income he gave the theater much distinction, but after many years found he was financially just about even.

Short skirted lady to her long skirted sister as overheard by Kin Hubbard in a movie lobby: "Gee, Myrt, I hardly knew you without your legs."

False Colors!

By NELSON HARDING

The flag's displayed, the ball is up.
But surely Uncle Sam
Will notice that the ice is cracked,
And that the flag's a sham.

The danger sign is plain to us,
And we observe with dread
The depths beneath the surface that Are over Uncle's head!

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Glance over the dry enforcement records indicates that nothing has been lost by evaporation.

The Treasury has turned the job over to the Coast Guard.

After that the Bureau of Agriculture will wrestle with it. Why not allow the Army to enjoy it for a while?

Seven new bills have bloomed in congressional halls which we will discuss before going off to a well-earned oblivion.

The most important amending of an amendment is the bill which seeks to differentiate between the amateur and the professional bootlegger.

We will tell you the difference right now. It's in the price.

The amateur or collegiate hootch-runner is the guest of honor under the proposed new law. He will be subject to small fines and instalment imprisonments until he learns his trade.

After that he becomes a professional and cannot play on the American tennis team.

The attempt to establish a dotted line of demarcation between the youthful rumhopper and the semi-pro Scotchster will be very difficult. This is one case where your nose doesn't know and your stomach is the ballot box for some deadly votes.

The question of dividing the sheep from the contented cows will be difficult. Suppose a thoughtful barber rubs bay rum on your face?

That ain't a bad idea for most faces. It is possible to absorb nourishment.

Then, actuated by a spirit of referendum and recall, you stick out your red, red tongue and lick that bay rum off your own face?

Does that make your barber a bootlegger?

Does that make your face a public carrier?

Do you get a wholesale term for continued violations or does the discerning justice take one judicial look at you and decide that your face is merely a misdemeanor and not a felony?

It is a very fine point in law which we would like to have cleared up by the Supreme Court on its next round of golf.

H. G. Wells Writes on

"The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

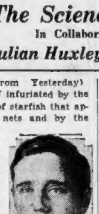
FISHERMEN infuriated by the quantities of starfish that appear in their nets and by the havoc wrought by these animals on oyster-beds, often chop them in halves and fling them back into the sea; but since each half then proceeds to develop into a whole starfish the fishermen are increasing rather than reducing the numbers of the species.



H. G. Wells

In the segmented worms we find various methods of asexual reproduction. In the little marine worm, Autolytus cornutus, new individuals are grown at the hinder end of the body, so that there may be a chain of from two to (at least) forty individuals, each with a head of its own, but stuck together head to tail by a mortar of living tissue until such time as one of the hinder ones becomes rebellious, refuses to follow its leader and tears itself away.

Moreover, in this species we have an example of the phenomenon known as "alternation of generations."

The fertilized eggs develop into sexless individuals which swim about sprouting new individuals until they die—but the individuals thus sprouted are male and female (and differ in a number of external characters from the sexless generations); they do not reproduce themselves asexually but produce fertilized eggs—and so the cycle begins again.

In another kind of worm, Syllis ramosa, which is found inside the cavities of sponges from the deep sea, new individuals are sprouted off as side-branches from the flanks of the old, so that a web of worms is produced from which the sexual individuals snap themselves off and escape.

Finally, similar but even more striking phenomena are seen in flatworms. In most species of Planaria (but not in all), the creature creeps about, but there is disaffection, so to speak, in its latter end; as the animal becomes fully grown the latter half reorganises itself into a new individual and when it is ready it suddenly rebels and firmly grips the ground like a resolute donkey, refusing to be pulled along by the front any longer.

There is a frantic tug-of-war and a final split: the front end crawls away with an appearance of extreme indifference to grow a new and ultimately equally troublesome tail. Meanwhile, the hind end starts on an independent life, to be rebelled against in its turn by its own posterior.

2. Obelia

IT is common to find a light brown fur-like growth just below low-water mark on seaweeds, the wooden piles of piers and the like. The growth consists of branching filaments of about the thickness of fine sewing cotton, the branches terminating in tiny knob-like enlargements. The whole thing is suggestive at first sight of a miniature forest of seaweed, but the filaments are animals, not plants; they belong to the genus called Obelia.

Under a microscope we find that the filamentous consist of hollow strands of living substance ensheathed by a transparent, horny tube.

At most of the knobs the tube opens out as a delicate goblet of simple design, and in each goblet there lives a polyp. The polyps—the individuals of the little colony—are very simple in their structure.

They consist of plain cylindrical bags of living tissue; at one end they are joined to the central filament of the branch on which they rest and at the other they have tiny funnel-shaped mouths surrounded by single rings of writhing tentacles.

Scattered all over their surfaces, and particularly numerous on the tentacles, are minute stinging capsules. Each of these is a tiny oval vesicle with a spiral filament coiled up inside and a sensitive "trigger hair" projecting from the surface of the animal into the outer world.

When the trigger hair is stimulated the spiral filament, barbed and poisonous, is shot out with surprising vigor.

The flower-like polyp is a living snare; it waits with its tentacles stretched out and if a suitable victim—such as one of the microscopic crustaceans—brushes one of the tentacles as it passes by it is suddenly riddled with the stinging, numbing filaments, then grasped in the other tentacles and crammed through the mouth into the hungry bag.

(To Be Continued Tomorrow)

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE modern woman may be put on a diet, on an allowance, on a jury or a committee, but never on the SHELF!

We may have lost our Santa Claus, but that old goblin—the fear of being "shelved"—has disappeared along with him. The average girl's problem is not how to keep Mother up-to-date, but how to keep her DOWN!

If you tried to put Mother on the shelf she would probably swing right off it, with that clever little bar-trick she learned at the gym last week.

If you handed her a lace cap and told her to go sit in a corner and "set an example," she would promptly toss the cap over the windmill, and tell you to be yourself! She may set a precedent or a fashion—or a pace—but if you MUST have an "example," go look at Queen Mary.

If you handed her a pair of knitting needles and a ball of yarn she'd laugh, and tell you to leave that to the younger generation.

Yet Mother's hands are never idle. If they aren't busy with a vibrator, a pack of cards or a club gavel, they are at the wheel of a car or at the business end of a golf-stick.

If you put Mother's feet on a footstool and told her to keep them there, you'd find that, at the first wail of a saxophone, the first note of the Opera Season or the first call of spring, she'd be off and away!

You can't "go home to Mother," and take the baby, when marriage disappoints you, or your husband doesn't appreciate you. For like as not, you'll find the Old Homestead dark and deserted, the key under the mat, and nothing in the ice-box but Mother's "beauty pack."

Mother MAY be out attending a charity-ball—the christening of a new battleship, or a new set of bylaws for her latest club. Or she may be "sitting up with the sick"—nursing along a new-born political movement.

You can lay your head on Mother's bosom and sob it all out, but do be careful not to crush her shoulder-corsage or to scratch yourself on a committee pin. You can bring all your troubles to Mother's knee, but don't start a run in her invisible silk stockings!

In short, Mother is not the "comfort" she used to be. She is the PRIDE of the family now! And its greatest puzzle!

But don't look for her in the sewing room, the pantry, the chimney corner, in the old rocking-chair—or on the SHELF! Because "the shelf" for women disappeared with Santa Claus!

Are We Civilized?

Only in Spots. Not Completely

(Copyright, 1930)

YOUNG FOOLS FIGHT A DUEL

THE white human races, happily located in the upper tiers of prosperity, scientific advancement and self-complacency, refer to themselves as "civilized nations."

THESE pictures show that the civilization does not go very deep.

Above, leaning on a friend, you see a young person who has just fought a duel at Oxford, in England.

Some question of "honor" arose between two young gentlemen, studying at the college, and they fought a duel with rapiers. The tall young man leaning on his friend was "pinked," lost a little blood and seems to be standing the ordeal not any too well.

So much for our civilization, in England.

The lower picture shows a lady, highly prized in Rome, the Countess Maria Pranzetti, to whom the fashionables of Rome go to have their fortunes told.

She takes one look at the customer, closes her eyes, she throws her head back, holds her beautiful hands, most artistically, as you see in the picture, then proceeds to tell the fortune.

THIS IS SAID TO BE MUSSOLINI'S "SEERESS"

It is said, although not proved, that the great Mussolini himself has consulted this Countess-seeress. If that happened the Countess doubtless was wise enough to tell the great Dictator that he was surely going on to greater things, possibly to a dictatorship of all Europe, with a long line of kings following after him.

If she said that, she was mistaken, but she was diplomatic.

Science has made progress, industry has made progress. A small percentage of the earth's population, less than 20 per cent even among so-called civilised people, is almost civilized.

But nobody is civilized completely. And as for the great crowd, it is little more civilised than were our great cave-dwelling ancestors of 1,000,000 years ago.

They still consult fortune tellers, still pile up money that they do not need, disregarding the sufferings of other men.

Fortunately science shows that the earth will last MILLIONS OF MILLIONS of years more. And there is still time for improvement.
